AUSTRIA ASKS FOR TRUCE

TURKEY QUITS

London, Oct. 31.---An armistice has been concluded with Turkey and Turkey is now out of the war, it was learned by the International News Service from an authoritative source this afternoon.

The allies' terms to Turkey, it is believed certain, embraced unconditional surrender and demobilization. Turkey's surrender opens up the Dardanelles for traffic between the Black Sea and the Mediterranean. Two great British armies, which have been operating in Palestine and Mesopotamia are now released for service elsewhere and it is probable that they will be employed in the Balkans for the invasion of Austria-Hungary unless Austria surrenders first.

40,000 ARE CAPTURED IN ITALY

London, Oct. 31. (12:20 P. M.)—Forty thousand Austro-Hungarian prisoners have been captured on the Italian front, said a Central News dispatch from Rome today. The retreating enemy is burning villages behind his lines. All of the allied armies on the Italian front are now in action and the whole battle line is ablaze. The line stretches from

The Boston AMERICAN is compelled, for the first time since this newspaper was established, to ask its readers to refrain from telephoning the AMERICAN for election returns next Tuesday night. The war has placed great stress upon all newspaper and telephone organizations. The influenza epidemic added to this strain. Election, in times of peace, taxes a newspaper to its utmost. In this time of war it will ease the election night load in the AMERICAN office if the telephone service necessary to collecting election news is relieved of the usual multitude of calls from the public. This will also give its due share of relief to the telephone company. Complete returns to date will be found in the Boston AMERICAN editions the morning after election.

Turkey's doom was sealed when Bulgaria dropped out of the war, severing direct rail communication between the central empires and Constantinople and opening the way for an attack against Constantinople from the north. On August, 4, 1914, a secret treaty of alliance was concluded between Germany and Turkey, but long before that German influence at Constantinople had been growing steadily stronger.

Field Marshal von der Goltz was sent into Turkey to reorganize the Turkish army and he saw to it that German influence should permeate deeply into the ranks.

Turkey followed Germany into the war and gave refuge to the German cruisers Breslau and Goeben, which were trapped in the Mediterranean and fled to the Dardanelles. They were turned over to the Turkish government after a pretended sale and Turkish names were given to them.

One of the chief agents of Germany in Turkey was Enver Pasha, minister of war at Constantinople when the conflict began. He was one of the influential Young Turks, and is supposed to have received large sums of money from Berlin to carry on his intrigues.

Berlin sent a large number of troops into Turkey as well as many cannon and much ammunition, and a number of financial loans were made.

Germany insisted that the Turks make their greatest effort against Egypt in order to cut the Suez Canal, and two expeditions were organized, but both were absolute failures. German troops were promiscuous in the Turkish armies during both campaigns.

During the course of the conflict the Arab tribesmen revolted and have since been aiding the allies. Their freedom will be recognized. The collapse of Turkey puts an end forever to Germany's vast dream of Mittel Europa and a Hamburg-to-Bagdad commercial route.

BULLETINS!

London, Oct. 31.—German troops in western Russia are in revolt. The Central News dispatch from Stockholm today said that 40,000 German soldiers at Ekaterinoslav (on the Dneiper River in Ukrainia) shot their officers and advanced on Kharkov, carrying the red flag. The revolutionary movement among the German troops in Ukrainia is growing.

London, Oct. 31.—Austria has consented to surrender civil and military authority in Poland and evacuate occupied Polish territory in return for coal and food, said a Milan dispatch to the Telegraph.

London, Oct. 31.—Field Marshal von Hindenburg tendered his resignation as chief of staff of the German army at a crown council on Friday, but the Kaiser refused to accept it, said an Amsterdam dispatch to the Post today.

Paris, Oct. 31.—Poland is preparing to take up arms against Germany, according to L'Information's Zurich correspondent, quoting a Berlin dispatch published in a Munich newspaper.

Copenhagen, Oct. 31.—Anarchy is growing in Budapest. Three thousand workmen have plundered the stores there of all arms and munitions, according to advices reaching here today. Riots are taking place hourly.

London, Oct. 31 (Noon).—Great doubt was expressed here today that General Foch's armistice terms had reached Berlin, as has been reported.

ARMIES DESERTING VIENNA ADMITS

By International News Service.

Copenhagen, Oct. 31.—Austrio-Hungarian troops are deserting across the Danube into Serbia, it was officially announced in Vienna today in a statement saying that "All of occupied enemy territory will be deserted in a few days."

The announcement indicated that all of Serbia had been cleared of Austro-Hungarian forces. The statement, as received in a dispatch from Vienna says:

"Austro-Hungarian troops are deserting into Serbia. We

PRESIDENT REPLIES TO THE PEACE NOTES OF TURKEY AND AUSTRIA

Washington, Oct. 31.—President Wilson has referred the appeal from the Turkish government, asking him to use his influence with the entente allies to secure an immediate armistice and peace negotiations, to the various powers now at war with Turkey. He so announced in a reply to the Turkish note of Oct. 14, which was made public by the State Department today.

President Wilson today also completed the text of his reply to the Austrian note of October 29 and sent it at once to Secretary of State Lansing for transmission to Vienna. It is understood that the reply is short and explains that the request for an immediate armistice and for peace negotiations has been communicated to the entente allies.

The original Turkish note was delivered to the State Department through the Spanish ambassador, Juan Riano, on October 14. It was signed by the charge d'affaires of Turkey at Madrid and delivered by him to the Spanish Foreign Office on October 12. In general, it was a duplication of the notes of Germany and Austria on the same subject. It accepted as a basis for negotiation the program laid down by the President in his message to Congress of January 8 and in his subsequent declarations, especially the speech of September 27.

The text of the reply as sent forward to Constantinople was as follows:

From the Secretary of State to the Ambassador of Spain.

Department of State, Washington, Oct. 31, 1918.

Excellency:

I did not fail to lay before the President the note which you addressed to him on the 14th instant, and handed to me on that date.

Acting under the instructions of your government you enclosed with that note the text of a communication received by the minister for foreign affairs of Spain from the charge d'affaires of Turkey at Madrid on October 12, in which the good offices of the government of Spain were sought to bring to the attention of the President the request of the Imperial Ottoman government that he take upon himself the task of the re-establishment of peace, and that he notify all belligerent states of the request and invite them to delegate plenipotentiaries to initiate negotiations, the Imperial Ottoman government accepting as a basis for the negotiation the program laid down by the President in his message to Congress of January 8, 1918, and in his subsequent declarations, especially his speech of September 27.

It is further requested by the Imperial Ottoman government that steps be taken for the immediate conclusion of a general armistice on land, on sea and in the air.

By direction of the President, I have the honor to inform Your Excellency that the government of the United States will bring the communication of the Turkish charge d'affaires to the knowledge of the governments at war with Turkey.

Accept, Excellency, the renewed assurance of my highest consideration.

ROBERT LANSING.

His Excellency, Don Juan Riano y Gayangos, Ambassador of Spain.

Allies Driving Austrians On 90-Mile Front Meet With Stubborn Resistance

By International News Service.

Washington, Oct. 31.—The assertion of the Austrian War Office that the Austrian-Hungarian troops are voluntarily evacuating territory across the Piave is branded as false in an official cable to the Italian embassy today. The enemy is still offering a formidable resistance and only when the line has been broken and the men forced to flee in disorder has any territory been evacuated, according to the cable.

The dispatch continues:

"The English army corps and the French division who represent the allied contingent across the Piave are fighting heroically side by side with the Italians. The front is now extending for about 150 kilometers (ninety miles).

"The Austrians have lost the pass of Vadal, which represents the only great lines of communication between the Austrian army operating in the mountains and that operating along the Piave. The loss of Vadal threatens to give the Italians a great advantage, of which the Italian command is trying to use to the utmost. In fact, the Italian troops are advancing rapidly, threatening the retreat of the enemy, whose losses are becoming appalling.

have withdrawn behind the Danube, also behind the Save and Drina Rivers.

"We are retiring in Albania. The whole of the occupied enemy territory will be deserted within a few days."

London, Oct. 31.—Austria has announced her intention of evacuating occupied Italian soil, according to a General News dispatch from Amsterdam today. The following announcement, said the dispatch, was given out in Vienna: "In view of our desire for peace, our troops on Italian soil will evacuate all occupied territory."

Rome, Oct. 31.—The Austro-Hungarians are retiring from Italian soil because they are decisively beaten, is the view of Italy.

ALLIES BEGIN ANOTHER DRIVE IN FLANDERS

Ghent is expected to fall shortly as a result. No details were available when this was cabled. The best information was that the Germans were not prepared to make a determined stand at Ghent, but would likely withdraw their line to Antwerp and the Dendre.

It is reported that the Germans are evacuating even their heavy artillery from Brussels in the direction of Lys and have been doing so since October 9.

Fierce Counter-Attacks Repulsed by the French; 1,453 Prisoners Taken

By International News Service.

Paris, Oct. 31.—"The enemy violently counter-attacked our positions west of St. Fergneux on Wednesday evening, but was repulsed," the War Office stated today. "All the positions were maintained intact.

"There was moderate artillery firing on the Oise River front.

"In the last two days the French Fifth Army has captured 1,453 prisoners, including a colonel and the chiefs of several battalions."

(St. Fergneux is just north of Chateau Porcien, where the French are menacing the German flank.)

Empress Fears Revolution; Asks Kaiser to Resign

Berne, Oct. 31.—The Kaiserin, who is very ill, is haunted by the memory of the Russian revolution and insists that the Kaiser resign, said a dispatch from a German source today.

Amsterdam, Oct. 31.—The Kaiser is willing to abdicate. In an address before members of the Reichstag, an excerpt of which was telegraphed from Berlin, the Emperor is quoted as saying: "The time is not ripe for my abdication. Should the nation require it later, I shall abdicate without hesitation, in favor of Prince William (the Crown Prince's eldest son), under regency of the Chancellor."

COAL MINERS GRANTED $1 A DAY PAY INCREASE

Washington, Oct. 31.—A wage increase averaging $1 a day for anthracite miners was announced this afternoon by Fuel Administrator Garfield.

TEUTONS FLEE FROM ASIAGO IN ITALY

St. Elvio on the Swiss frontier to the Adriatic.

By International News Service.

Rome, Oct. 31.—The advance of the Italian and British armies continued throughout Wednesday without a check. The Austrian line has now been pierced to a depth of fifteen miles at some places.

The British have reached the Livenza river at Francenigo.

British and Italian cavalry forces have reached Sacille, nearly ten miles southeast of the former Austro-Hungarian base at Vittorio.

Oderzo, eight miles east of the Piave, has been occupied by the Italians. All of the objectives assigned to the various armies were taken.

AMERICANS WITH VICTORS.

American troops from Ohio are driving ahead with the Italians and British.

The possession of Monte Cesen permits the Italian artillery to dominate the communications of the Austro-Hungarian Piave and Trentino armies.

The Italian Fifth Army has established a fourth bridgehead near the mouth of the Piave River and has begun an advance in a northeasterly direction.

In the meanwhile the Tenth Army is moving eastward along the Oderzo-Porto Guardo railway.

In spite of lack of food and sleep and in the face of constant fighting, the British and Italians have advanced without any relief. The air forces have done excellent work.

The Sacille-Pordonene road is littered with killed and wounded and Sature debris.

In the Asiago sector the British have entered Camporovere and have captured the strategic heights.

The Tenth Army has taken 2,000 prisoners.

The official war report today says:

"The heads of our advancing columns have reached Serravalle, Ursago, Gajarina and Orderzo.

"Our cavalry has entered Sacille.

"The enemy has been obliged to evacuate Asiago before the advance of the sixth army.

"During the rush it has been impossible to count the thousands of prisoners captured."

One Half of Montenegro Soil Is Now Cleared of the Austrian Invaders

London, Oct. 31.—Half of Montenegro has been cleared of Austro-Hungarians, said a dispatch to the Serbian legation today. The advancing Serbians are nearing the border of Herzegovina (an Austrian province).

The Serbs have captured Tsarkak.

Beckhard's
THREE MEN'S STORES

IN November, 1874, Sam A. Beckhard opened a modest men's store at the corner of Washington and Kneeland streets. Forced by increased business to seek larger quarters, he soon removed to School and Tremont streets, opening the present Parker House store. Carrying on the business on the principles laid down by the father, Mr. Beckhard's sons today operate the three up-to-date stores bearing his name, proving, by a marked growth of business each season, that giving value PAYS.

A House Built on Rock

WHEN you get right down to foundations, it is not how loudly nor how quietly a store proclaims itself, but the quality, reliability and price of its merchandise that counts.

For that reason, the usual (and perhaps the *un*usual) modesty of our regular announcements to the public.

At this particular moment, when our business passes the milestone of its forty-fourth successful year in Boston, we speak with a little extra strength about ourselves, because ours is a business that has grown solidly and consistently through nearly half a century, because of its bed-rock foundation of thoroughly honest merchandise at fair prices.

Take for instance our department of Men's Clothes. Our sales have grown steadily because we have featured only garments of proven value and reliability. The endorsement of our own well-earned reputation stands behind our Fall and Winter showing of

Roxbury and Dorchester to Send "Smiles Across the Sea" Saturday

Attention, Roxbury and Dorchester!

Get ready to do your part to make the boys in France happy when they behold your smiling face in the big movie serial, "Smiles Across the Sea." Yesterday's first instalment was a wonderful success.

Nearly all of Dorchester and a large part of Roxbury is included in the invitation herewith extended to all relatives of boys overseas.

Urge your friends to bring their relatives who have boys in the service and assist in making Saturday's film a sort of family album for the boys "over there."

Relatives will make the pictures more inspiring by providing themselves with lettered signs and banners bearing personal greetings to their fighting boys.

"Close-ups" will be made of war-brides and all babies born since their daddies went to war.

THE NEXT INSTALMENT of "smiles" will be made next Saturday, November 2, at 2 p. m., near the elephant house at Franklin Park. This film-picture is open to all relatives of soldiers who live in Wards 16, 17, 18 and 19, which include a large part of Dorchester and Roxbury.

THE THIRD GROUP of films depicting the beloved forms and faces of soldiers' relatives will be taken on Sunday, November 3, at [illegible] p. m., at Mission Hill Playground, Tremont street, near the Mission Church. This chapter will include relatives residing in Wards 14 and 15, under the jurisdiction of Draft Divisions 14 and 15.

NEXT WEDNESDAY, November 6, all relatives residing in Wards 1 and 2, which include all of East Boston, will smile for the camera at Wood Island Park, Neptune road, near the waterfront. This invitation includes every soldier's relative in East Boston.

The place and date of the Charlestown and Somerville film will be announced tomorrow. South Boston's turn will be announced in Saturday's AMERICAN.

Other appointments, at the rate of three a week, will successively include in the "Smiles" film all soldiers' relatives in Boston and suburbs.

Read the Boston AMERICAN every day to learn when your district will be filmed.

There is no expense connected with the taking of the pictures. All costs and responsibility will be assumed by William Randolph Hearst and the International Film Service, Mr. Hearst's great moving picture organization.

If the weather is inclement Wednesday's pictures will be taken on Thursday, Saturday's pictures on Monday, and Sunday's film on the Tuesday following the advertised dates.

NORTH SEA IN ALLIED CONTROL

Two great advantages in war transportation, by land and by sea, are accruing to the allies through the recovery of the upper Belgian coast and the gradual movement of the Belgian battle line eastward along the Dutch frontier.

One is the set of new and more direct water lines from England to Ostend and Zeebrugge and other West Flanders ports.

The other is the direct contact with the Netherlands border, so far as the Belgian frontier border is cleared of Germans.

The battle line now anchors on the Belgium-Netherlands border more than a dozen miles inland from the North Sea coast. Through this widening neck the Allies are enabled to send supplies overland from Belgium into Holland, to be used for relief purposes and for aid to interned prisoners.

The evacuation of Ostend and Zeebrugge by the Germans not only deprived the enemy of these great U-boats bases, but also increased the waterway range between England and the mainland.

NEW ROUTES SHORTER.

Use of these new water routes eases the heavy traffic on the cross-channel routes westward of Dover. The new routes are shorter, too.

The distance from Southampton, England, for instance, across to Havre, the big northern French port, is 120 miles.

The distances across from Dover to nearest French and Belgian ports are:

To Calais	25 miles
To Dunkirk	44 miles
To Ostend	70 miles
To Zeebrugge	82 miles

The two latter routes are among those added to the water routes by the clearing of the Belgian upper coast. The Ramsgate-Ostend route is nearly ten miles less than the one from Dover to Ostend if Ramsgate serves more conveniently for point of departure.

SUBMARINES FLED.

Dovetailing in with this advantage of extra water routes is the added trouble to the U-boats through the elimination of Ostend and Zeebrugge as submarine bases so near the Strait of Dover. The enemy "subs" skeddaddled out of these bases, of course, before the Allied advance struck in there. Their nearest bases now are on the lower German coast, such as Bremerhaven at the mouth of the Weser river and at the mouth of the Elbe and the North sea end of the Kiel Canal. They have to come down the length of the Netherlands coast before they can operate against the cross-channel traffic, instead of darting out direct from Ostend or Zeebrugge.

It is taken for granted that the added water routes from England to North Belgian ports are being utilized to supply the advancing armies of the Allies in Belgium and to relieve the traffic strain on the routes employed heretofore.

The land-wise advantage is an Allied asset as well. From Bruges, for example, there is direct communication by canal and highway with Sluis, just inside the Netherlands border and about twelve miles from Bruges.

SUPER-WAR PRICES.

Holland, hedged about with one restriction after another and with the fate of invaded Belgium ever before her eyes, has seen food prices rise to super-war scale.

Tea at $6 per pound, oranges at $1 apiece, meat from $1.50 a pound upward, and coal elusive at any price—these are the facts that confront the Hollander who has money.

In addition to the thousands of Belgian refugees in the Netherlands there are thousands of Allied and German soldiers in prison camps.

Food Almost Unobtainable and Children Are Dying From Starvation

London, Oct. 31.—Russian wireless stations have transmitted the following message:

"From all regions now under German occupation it is reported that German military authorities are taking everything away to Germany. They are devastating the country. In White Russia there are no more horses and no cattle because the Germans have taken all.

"In regions where evacuation is imminent fields remain unsown because the Germans have left no seeds. Children are dying of starvation.

"Milk is unobtainable. From the towns furniture, telegraph and telephone supplies have been sent to Germany. From railway lines also, everything has been removed to Germany. Only wrecked and unrepaired carriages are being left behind.

"The country is being systematically devastated so far as the Germans prepare themselves for evacuation."

War Summary

Invasion of Germany through the "back door," by way of Austria and Hungary, whether the Hapsburg Empire succumbs or elects to fight to the last ditch with the Kaiser, is the possibility that looms most largely in the day's war news.

A brief dispatch from Paris notes the arrival of Serbian cavalry on the banks of the Danube east of Semendria. Standing alone this item seems of little import; taken in connection with the rapid advance of the armies of General Diaz, it is fraught with meaning.

The Allies are also moving rapidly northward through Albania, driving the Austrians before them, and the possibility of a concentrated converging attack on the dual monarchy, from the southeast, the south and the southwest is daily becoming more evident.

Southern Hungary and the crown lands of Bosnia and Herzegovina offer easy pathways to the invader. Only stubborn resistance by a well-organized army could check any attempt made in force in either district and the Austrian army is neither particularly well-organized nor inclined to offer any very stubborn resistance just at present.

The Isonzo region, through which the main drive of the Italians would be likely directed, is, however, far more difficult, and as the Austrians, as they proved earlier in the war, can hold this rough terrain with comparatively few men.

But there is this important difference now. In 1916 and the first half of 1917, when the Italians were attacking in this country, the Austrian morale was far stronger than today. At that time, furthermore, when hard pressed, they could always rely upon the Germans for assistance, something that is no longer possible. The natural obstacles for a successful drive on Vienna by way of the Isonzo and through the Trentino are just as difficult as ever; the human are not nearly so much so.

Autumnal rains have evidently slowed up nearly all activities on the western front for the time being, Field Marshal Haig cabling there was "nothing of interest to report" on the British front. The Americans operating northwest of Verdun are meeting with minor successes and the French and Belgian fronts are quiet. Apparently until there is a decided improvement in the weather conditions we cannot look for any large-scale operations in the principal battle area of the war.

THOUSANDS SEND SMILES ACROSS THE SEA

More than one mile of film was consumed in filming the smiles of between three and four thousand Boston relatives of soldiers at the first instalment of "Smiles Across the Sea," on Boston Common.

Young men and maidens, old men and children, wives, mothers, sisters, fathers, brothers, sweethearts, uncles and cousins combined to make the first Boston group of "smiles" a sweeping success.

Relatives of soldier boys from every walk of life marched down the [illegible] end of the parade ground on Boston Common and smiled their sweetest smiles into the clicking camera which will transport them to the frontiers of freedom.

Youth and age, poverty and riches, beauty and its opposite, furs and [illegible], silk and [illegible] all combined to make the initial chapter of "Smiles" film a living witness to the essential democratic spirit of America in war-time.

GOOD HUMOR EVERYWHERE.

Good humor was everywhere. Joy and pride fairly oozed from beaming relatives at the thought of their Johnny or Sammie handing their own dear faces to the movies behind the lines in France.

As the long line of soldiers' relatives approached the two steadily cranking camera men, frequent "hurrahs" and exclamations of enthusiasm broke from the marching throats as if actually cheering the boys in the trenches.

Handkerchiefs waved, hands gesticulated, babies were held higher and everybody smiled their broadest as they neared the scene of operations.

Many of the marchers bore placards containing a personal greeting to an absent loved one. "Hello, George," "Best wishes to Dan," "Here's Daddy's Sweetheart," "[illegible] Mike," "With Love for Nathan," were some of the more conspicuous greetings.

The various draft divisions of the four wards filmed were marked by large placards bearing the number of their respective divisions. Draft board officials from several of the divisions were prominent in the line.

Heading the procession were Captain James F. [illegible] of Station 4 and eighty-five patrolmen assigned to handle the crowd by Superintendent of Police Michael H. Crowley. Superintendent Crowley was on hand personally to see that nothing was lacking in the police department.

Mayor Andrew J. Peters and Lieutenant-Governor Calvin Coolidge, accompanied by members of the Governor's Staff and Council and city officials, occupying a prominent place in the front line and were greeted with salvos of applause as they doffed their hats to the cameras and the crowd.

Unanimous praise for Mr. Hearst's splendid contribution to the morale of our fighting forces through the assistance of the movie camera was voiced on every side.

It was an orderly and appreciative throng who "smiled" for the boys overseas. The next instalment of the "Smiles Across the Sea" film will be made next Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock at Franklin Park.

Initiative and Referendum

This extension of government by the people is provided for by the FIRST amendment to the Constitution on the ballot November 5th.

It is RECOMMENDED to the people for their approval by the Constitutional Convention.

This great NON-PARTISAN measure was passed, after three months of debate, by votes of REPUBLICANS, DEMOCRATS and PROGRESSIVES, in a convention which fairly represented the views and interests of the whole population of the State.

The INITIATIVE enables the people to pass good laws and constitutional amendments when an un-representative or controlled Legislature refuses. The REFERENDUM enables the people to veto bad laws passed by the Legislature.

The Initiative and Referendum is no untried experiment; it is in SUCCESSFUL operation in twenty States of the Union, and nowhere is its repeal even proposed.

In 1916 the voters in thirty-seven CONSERVATIVE senatorial and representative districts in Massachusetts, by overwhelming majorities, instructed their representatives to favor the adoption of the Initiative and Referendum.

The Massachusetts House of Representatives in every year but one from 1902 to 1914 voted in FAVOR of the Initiative and Referendum, in recent years by overwhelming majorities.

Vote YES on the Initiative and Referendum Amendment.

ROOSEVELT AND TAFT ASSAIL THE PRESIDENT; DEMAND G.O.P. RULE

Statement Says Republican Congress Is Necessary to Settle the Prob lems of Peace.

By International News Service.

New York, Oct. 31.—For the first time in American history two former Republican Presidents, Theodore Roosevelt and William Howard Taft, today issued a joint signed statement advocating the election of a Republican Congress and the "winning of the war" through unconditional surrender on the part of Germany. The signed statement of the only two living ex-Presidents given out here today follows:

THEIR STATEMENT.

"We approach this subject as Americans, and only as Americans. When this war broke out we would have welcomed action by the President which would have eliminated all questions of party politics. It would have enabled us all to stand behind him to the end, without regard to anything except national considerations.

"Instead of this partisan lines have been strictly drawn from the first, and now the President announces that only Democrats can be entrusted with future power, and only those Democrats who do his will. Because of this reflection on other patriotic Americans, we appeal for fair play.

The next Congress will serve from March 4, 1919, to March 4, 1921.

"In that period,

"First, the war must be fought to unconditional surrender unless this is achieved before.

"Second, the terms of world peace must be settled.

"Third, the Democratic administration, after expending billions of treasure and exercising more absolute power than any administration in our history, must give an account of its stewardship.

WORK OF RECONSTRUCTION.

"4th, the change from war conditions to peace must be brought about with the least disturbance, and the work of reconstruction must be broadly begun.

"A Republican Congress will be much better qualified than one controlled by Democrats to aid the country in adopting the measures needed for these four great tasks.

"First, even as a minority party, the epublicans made the winning of the war possible by passing the original draft bill. Without this, we could not have trained and landed the two millions of men now in France. As a minority party the epublicans forced upon a reluctant President and Secretary of War, after an injurious delay of four months, the amended draft act, without which we could not put two more millions at the front next July.

"The Speaker, the leader and the chairman of the Military Committee of the Democratic House, opposed the original draft with all the vigor possible. It was saved, and so our country's cause, was saved by the Republican minority.

"Second—The new Senate must approve by two-thirds vote the terms of peace. Those terms should be settled not by one man only. It is one man control we are fighting in this war to suppress. If the peace treaty is to be useful in the future it must be approved by the great body of the American people.

"The President has indicated a willingness to make a peace by negotiation. He has not demanded as he might have done in three lines, that which the American people demand, an unconditional surrender. His exchange of notes with Germany has caused a deep concern among our people lest he may by his parleying with her concede her a peace around a council table instead of a sentence from a court.

ASSAIL THE FOURTEEN POINTS.

"The fourteen points, which the President and Germany assume that they have already agreed upon, are so general and vague that such a peace would be no treaty at all, but only a protocol to an interminable discussion.

"The President is without final power to bind the United States to those fourteen points, although his language does not suggest it. Still less has he power to bind our noble allies. We do not know that these points include all that our allies may justly demand, or do not concede something that they may justly withhold. What they have done for us, we owe our allies the highest good faith.

It is of capital importance, therefore, that we should now elect a Senate which shall be independent enough to interpret and enforce the will of the American people in the matter of this world peace, and not merely submit to the uncontrolled will of Mr. Wilson.

"Nor can the attitude of the House of Representatives be ignored in this peace. Every affirmative obligation binding the United States in that treaty must be performed by the House as part of the Congress.

"TRADITIONS OF REPUBLIC."

"The present Democratic majority in the House has been subserviant to the will of the President in every respect, except when critical issues in the conduct of the war have been involved. The President has not hesitated publicly to discipline those of his party who have disagreed with him, and the lesson has had its affect. A new Democratic Congress, with its old leaders, thus chastened, will offer no opposition to his will. They will not be consulted in the future more than in the past. In a Democratic Congress, the American people will not have the service of an independent courageous, co-ordinate branch of the government to moderate his uncontrolled will. It is not safe to entrust to one man such unlimited power. It is not in accord with the traditions of the republic.

SAY THEY VOTED RIGHT.

"Third—The Republicans voted without objection billions to be expended by this administration. Six hundred and forty millions for aviation were given to the executive to build airplanes, without a single limitation as to the manner or method of its expenditure.

"A Senate committee has deplored the waste and failure in the use of that money. The debts which have been created by this war the people will be paying to the third and fourth generation. They have a right to know how these enormous sums have been expended. Only a Republican Congress will have the courage to exact a detailed and accurate story of that stewardship.

"4th. The work of reconstruction must not be done by one man, or finally formulated according to his academic theories and ideals. The President was not elected when such issues were before the people. His mandate of power was not given in the light of the momentous questions, which will soon force themselves for solution. He was elected as a peace President, and because he had kept us out of war.

"WILL OF THE PEOPLE."

"The American people should therefore place in the branch of the government charged constitutionally with adopting policies of reconstruction a Congress which will not register the will of one man, but fresh from the people, will enact the will of the people.

"We earnestly deprecate extending the unified uncontrolled leadership of a commander-in-chief to the making of a permanent treaty of peace or to the framing of those measures of reconstruction which must seriously affect the happiness and prosperity of the American people for a century. We urge all Americans, who are Americans first, to vote for a Republican Congress.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."
"WILLIAM H. TAFT."

It is the duty of a floor boy to run messages and errands for the brokers on the exchange.

WAR FUND QUOTA FOR BOSTON IS $6,750,000

Plans Being Hurried for Big Drive—Gov. McCall Sends Message to Boys Overseas

Twenty-five thousand men and women will make a complete house-to-house canvass of the city of Boston during the week of the United War Work campaign, November 11 to 18. Boston's total quota is $6,750,000. Chairmen already have been appointed throughout the city. They include Mayor Andrew J. Peters, Joseph Maynard, surveyor of the port, Joseph P. Lomasney, schoolhouse commissioner, and others. A meeting of the ward chairmen will be held at the Boston City Club tonight. Cass Connoway, a Y. M. C. A. worker, has started overseas with a message from Governor McCall to every Massachusetts boy at the front.

TAKES GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

Mr. Connoway will visit all the huts, hotels, recreation centres and other war work headquarters on the other side. Wherever he meets a Massachusetts boy he will give him this message from Governor McCall:

"As Governor of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts and on behalf of her people I extend to you our warmest greetings. We watch eagerly for all the news of our Massachusetts boys at the front. We are naturally a little more interested in their doings than in the boys from other States, although our enthusiasm embraces all those fighting under the American flag and in fact under all the flags of our allies.

"To the boys of Massachusetts I want to say that our hearts and our thoughts are with you constantly and it is our endeavor to always do those things for your families and friends at home that will enable you to continue cheerfully to bear the burden which has been thrust upon you by this war through which we are endeavoring to make the world a better place in which to live. We rejoice at all your victories and feel honored when you are honored.

PLANS MADE TODAY.

"Yoh are upholding the traditions of Massachusetts splendidly and I want to congratulate you upon the success you have brought to the American arms. Our best wishes and our blessings are with you always."

A meeting of the Boston Industrial and Trade Committee of the United War Work Campaign was held today at the Hotel Bellevue. Plans were outlined as to best manner in which the trades and industries of the city can lend their aid toward exceeding the Boston quota.

BAY STATE PLEA FOR 10-CENT FARE HEARD

Receiver Says Road Must Be Granted Right to Increase or Go Out of Business

Whether the Bay State Street Railway shall be allowed to go "upon the rocks" under its present schedule of fares, is the only question confronting that road today, according to Wallace B. Denham, receiver for the road, at the initial hearing before the Public Service Commission.

The road seeks in its petition a release from its present schedule and permission to increase its fare to a uniform rate of ten cents, and an elimination of the zone system.

Chairman Fred J. Macleod conducted the hearing, assisted by Joseph B. Eastman and Everett E. Stone. Representing the Bay State Street Railway were Samuel H. Pillsbury, counsel; R. B. Stearns, first vice-president, and Wallace B. Donham, receiver for the road.

CITY OFFICIALS PRESENT.

Mayors of all of the cities, chairmen of boards of selectmen of the various towns and city solicitors crowded the hearing room. A roll call showed the following cities represented, either by their Mayor or city solicitor; Newburyport, Salem, Lawrence, Gloucester, Lowell, Brockton, Peabody, Revere, Chelsea, Woburn and Quincy.

Towns represented were: Arlington, Andover, Saugus, Stoneham, Swampscott, West Newbury, North Reading, East Bridgewater, Middleton, Dighton, Whitman, Rockland, Stoughton, Easton, Raynham, Dracut, Essex, Randolph, Wakefield, Weymouth, Hull, Rockport and Norwell.

Organizations represented were the Gloucester Board of Trade, Salem Normal School, Saugus Board of Trade, Winchester Grange, University of Massachusetts, Inc.; Malden Board of Trade, Council; Landowners of Lowell and Lawrence line; Essex County Agricultural School; Fall River Textile Council; Billerica citizens and Burdett Business College at Lynn.

A motion of Whitfield Tuck of Winchester, that the hearing be postponed until after the State election, November 5, as "a patriotic duty," was defeated by Chairman Macleod who gave as his only open days for hearing, previous to November 10, today, Friday, Saturday and November 5. A motion of a Salem man that days for hearing interested individual communities might be posted for the benefit of residents therein, so that they would not be compelled to attend all hearings, was also lost.

SAYS PUBLIC ISN'T SATISFIED.

Counsel Pillsbury, in his opening for the road, said that the schedule of rates put into effect last June had been neither satisfactory to the company nor to the public. He said there was much dissatisfaction because certain communities were enabled to ride at a lower rate than others. He said that the elimination of the zone rate and the establishing of a uniform 10 cent fare would do away with this dissatisfaction and the penny nuisance, as well.

Receiver Donham stated that he was not there to ask more money for the stockholders of the road, but as an officer of the United States District Court, and that he was asking only that to which he was entitled. He said that conditions were so unsatisfactory that it was only a question of the company "going on the rocks" or establishing the uniform rate. It is a question only whether the road will operate or whether it will not.

BERLIN-VIENNA RAILWAY CUT BY CZECHO--SLOVAKS

Paris, Oct. 31.—Czecho-Slovaks forces operating along the Elbe River Valley in Bohemia have cut the Berlin-Vienna Railroad near Bodenbach, completely interrupting rail communication between the German and Austrian capitals, according to advices reaching here from Swiss sources today. Trains from Berlin are now being turned back at Senadau, it is reported. Czech forces have also interrupted communications between Fiume, the chief Hungarian seaport, and Agram, the capital of Croatia.

REFUTES HAYS' DRIVE AT WILSON

Secretary of Labor Says Republicans Have Tried to Hamper President

Washington, Oct. 31.—"Autocracies make no appeals to the people."

This was the declaration of William B. Wilson, Secretary of Labor, in refuting the charge of Will H. Hays, Republican national chairman, that President Wilson's appeal to the people for a sympathetic Congress constitutes autocracy. Workers of the nation will respond to the President's appeal, the secretary said. His statement follows:

"No one questions the fact that many Republicans voted for war, voted for the selective draft and voted for additional taxation and bond issues, but the partisan spirit was so strong in some of them that they had no sooner voted for war, for men and money, than they began to harass the administration in its conduct of the war.

"During last Winter when the administration was sending to Europe more men and more material than even rashest critics dreamed of mentioning in their criticisms, when it was essential for the safety of our troops and the success of our cause that the extent of activities should be withheld from the public in order that the enemy might not secure information that would result in the destruction of the lives of our boys at sea, it was these same partisan Republicans who started and conducted a campaign directed against the inefficiency of the administration when the administration could not reply without endangering the lives of our soldiers.

"It is the same partisan Republicans who have kept up a continuous destructive criticism of the conduct of the war. They have carried on a partisan campaign to elect a Republican Congress on the theory that the 'Adjournment of politics' meant that the Democratic party must remain inactive and silent while some Republicans poured out the vials of their venom and others exposed their ignorance of European affairs in an effort to coerce and cajole the American people into the belief that the way to support the President is to send people to Congress who are opposed to him.

"The real reason for the partisan activity of the reactionary Republican element is that more legislation beneficial to the great mass of the common people has been placed upon the statute books and a more sympathetic understanding of the rights and responsibilities of labor has obtained during the administration of President Wilson than in all of the presiding administrations since the close of the Civil War. The standards of work and of living have been improved."

PELLETIER AIDS CAMPAIGN FOR XMAS FUND

Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, hurrying through Boston, visiting shipyards, making speeches and receiving innumerable callers, found time to give his endorsement to the Boston AMERICAN'S Christmas Basket Fund.

The Secretary is one of many prominent men who have already sent in their word of congratulation, or their checks, or both.

This fund, designed to furnish Christmas dinners to the poor, and having done it with great success for the past five years, faces this year the task of feeding more poor families than ever. The needy are so woefully poor this year!

There is no charity, as has already been admitted by Mayor Peters and dozens of others, which acts so directly as this one.

Money subscribed to this fund goes immediately into actual food delivered to an actual and present case of need. The Boston AMERICAN, which started the fund with a subscription of $1,000, has on file in the office today dozens of piteous appeals from poor families, widows and little children who ask to be remembered on Christmas Day.

These cases will all be investigated and the Christmas basket in each case will be delivered to a deserving home. In this fund, too, there is no deduction for administration, or delivery or for anything except a very few of the most legitimate expenses. The total cost of administration and delivery is borne by the Boston AMERICAN and by such others as contribute their services, trucks, etc.

Thus every dollar collected goes into actual relief.

Is there any other charity where a donor can see his gift go so directly and helpfully applied as through the medium of this charity?

Another indorsement of the fund arrived today from District Attorney Joseph C. Pelletier. The district attorney is a busy man with many calls upon his time and his pocketbook; nevertheless he found the occasion to sit down and write his check and send in the following indorsement of the fund:

"Ralph Frye, Secretary,
"Christmas Basket Fund,
"Boston American.

"My Dear Mr. Frye:

"I enclose my check for $10 for the Christmas Basket Fund. I wish I could make it ten times as much. While there are many calls from every direction at this time, I feel sure that Christmas will bring a larger opportunity for us to give a little good cheer to families and homes suffering from the inroads made by the influenza, from the death of loved ones at home and from their absence and failure to provide support.

"Please accept my best wishes for a large fund to carry on your good work.

"Very truly yours,
(Signed) "J. C. PELLETIER."

Others who endorse the fund today are:

Former Mayor Z. E. Cliff, of Somerville—With the thoughts and energies of the people centred on war activities, there is great danger that many worthy poor will be entirely forgotten Christmas time unless some active agency interests itself in their behalf. The AMERICAN'S Christmas Basket Fund is a step in the right direction, and I certainly wish the undertaking every possible success.

Francis H. Blewett of Somerville: While we should not relax in the slightest degree our interest in everything that pertains to the war, we should not forget the unfortunate poor about us and to provide as many as possible with a substantial dinner on Christmas Day is, in my opinion, a most commendable plan.

John J. McCarthy of Somerville—Deaths during the epidemic of influenza and pneumonia has taken away the husband and father of many homes. In many instances this loss represents the sudden taking away of the sole support of the family, which, because of the high cost of living, have been unable to save. Widowed mothers with several small children are unable to do much, if anything, towards their support and to saddened homes of this kind the AMERICAN Christmas basket would prove a blessing.

Daniels Asks All to Aid Christmas Fund

To the Boston AMERICAN, Boston, Mass.

I have read Mayor Peters' endorsement of the Boston AMERICAN'S Christmas Basket Fund with great interest and feel with him that this is a project to which people ought generously to open their pocketbooks and their hearts.

The boys on the ships and in the trenches are fighting so that they can get back home after destroying autocracy. When they do come home (and they will not come until they have accomplished what they set out to do) they will be more rejoiced by Christmas cheer than by anything else in the world.

(Signed) JOSEPHUS DANIELS,
Secretary of the Navy.

Western Cow Punchers Found Debating With Scared Boches Close By

By BERT FORD,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

With the American Army Northwest of Verdun, Oct. 31.—An American lieutenant and four privates from an engineer regiment, who were isolated for four days in a shellhole in No Man's Land, defeated a German raiding party of fifty men and several other smaller detachments by their superb marksmanship before being rescued by an American advance.

The men hailed from Newark and Elizabeth, N. J. The lieutenant had a chance to retire, but, receiving countermanding orders, stuck to his post.

There is an American doughboy named Buck O'Donnell, a former cowpuncher and moving picture actor, who is firmly convinced a sham battle in the movies can put it all over the terrors of a real battle any day.

O'Donnell formerly lived in Silver City, N. M., and more recently in Los Angeles, where he impersonated a knight in a Joan of Arc film in which Geraldine Farrar starred.

MEETS BUCK WITH CAPTIVES.

This story was told me by Major Starrett of Los Angeles, back of the lines:

"I was out reconnoitering in pitch darkness at night in wooded and hilly ground, when I saw two figures. I was suspicious and advanced cautiously. A head looked familiar and then I heard a drawling voice. I was dumfounded when I came across O'Donnell and another cowboy from a Montana outfit. In a deep ravine there was a scrap with four Boches, in which one was shot and three captured. They had the trio there with them.

"The last time I had seen O'Donnell he was riding a horse and wearing a suit of armor in a film battle scene. The director on the sly told the foot soldiers in the mimic affray that he would give a bonus to those he found sitting on Sir Knight at the end of the affair, in order to make it more realistic.

ARGUING ABOUT H. C. L.

"Buck O'Donnell was attacked by a quartet with spears and was unhorsed and got an awful mauling.

"The first thing I asked him when I met him out there in No Man's Land was if he found real warfare worse than the movies. He grinned and replied:

"'I have never yet found any Boches as ambitious as those spear guns.' It certainly was a strange and unexpected meeting, and there was Buck O'Donnell out there holding a gun with three scared Boches in front of him.

"And what do you suppose that O'Donnell and the other cowboy were arguing about when I found them? It was whether it was cheaper to live in New York or Los Angeles, with Buck contending that as the days were longer in the West and there as more sunlight, one could work longer in the West and consequently earn more dough."

Our Government has said very emphatically that usual Christmas shopping conditions cannot be permitted this year.

The usual congestion of postal, railroad and other facilities must not exist this year. It would seriously interfere with our conduct of the war.

Germany Planned to Divide Turkish Dominions with England

Division of Turkey.

Wangenheim had another reason for wishing an immediate peace, and it was a reason which shed much light upon the shamelessness of German diplomacy. The preparation which Turkey was making for the conquest of Egypt caused this German ambassador much annoyance and anxiety. The interest and energy which the Turks had manifested in this enterprise were particularly giving him concern. Naturally I thought at first that Wangenheim was worried that Turkey would lose; yet he confided to me that his real fear was that his ally might succeed.

A victorious Turkish campaign in Egypt, Wangenheim explained, might seriously interfere with Germany's plans. Should Turkey conquer Egypt, naturally Turkey would insist at the peace table on retaining this great province and would expect Germany to support her in this claim. But Germany had no intention then of promoting the re-establishment of the Turkish Empire. At that time she hoped to reach an understanding with England, the basis of which was to be something in the nature of a division of interests in the East. Germany desired above all to obtain Mesopotamia as an indispensable part of her Hamburg-Bagdad scheme. In return for this, she was prepared to give her endorsement to England's annexation of Egypt. Thus it was Germany's plan at that time that she and England should divide Turkey's two fairest dominions.

At this time a German diplomat appeared in Constantinople who has figured much in recent history—Dr. Richard von Kuhlmann, afterward Minister for Foreign Affairs.

He impressed me as not a particularly aggressive, but a very entertaining man; he apparently wished to become friendly with the American Embassy and he possessed a certain attraction for us all, as he had just come from the trenches and gave us many vivid pictures of life at the front. At that time we were all keenly interested in modern warfare, and Kuhlmann's details of trench fighting held us spellbound many an afternoon and evening.

His other favorite topic of conversation was Welt-Politik, and on all foreign matters he struck me as remarkably well-informed.

KUHLMANN THE "VELVETY."

At that time we did not regard Von Kuhlmann as an important man, yet the industry with which he attended to his business attracted everyone's attention even then. Soon, however, I began to have a feeling that he was exerting a powerful influence in a quiet, velvety kind of way. He said little, but I realized that he was listening to everything and storing all kinds of information away in his mind; he was apparently Wangenheim's closest confident, and the man upon whom the ambassador was depending for his contact with the German Foreign Office.

About the middle of December Von Kuhlmann left for Berlin, where he stayed about two weeks. On his return, in the early part of January, 1915, there was a noticeable change in the atmosphere of the German embassy. Up to that time Wangenheim had discussed peace negotiations more or less informally, but now he took up the matter specifically. I gathered that Kuhlmann had been called to Berlin to receive all the latest details on this subject, and that he had come back with the definite instructions that Wangenheim should move at once.

In all my talks with the German ambassador on peace, Kuhlmann was always hovering in the background; at one most important conference he was present, though he participated hardly at all in the conversation, but his role, as usual, was that of a subordinate and quietly eager listener.

"TIME TO END THE WAR."

Wangenheim now informed me that January, 1915, would be an excellent time to end the war. Italy had not yet entered, though there was every reason to believe that she would do so by spring. Bulgaria and Rumania were still holding aloof, though no one expected that their waiting attitude would last forever. France and England were preparing for the first of the "spring offensives" and the Germans had no assurance that it would not succeed; indeed they feared disaster.

Yet, badly as Wangenheim wanted peace in January, 1915, it was quite apparent that he was not thinking of a permanent peace. The greatest obstacle to peace at that time was the fact that Germany showed no signs that she regretted her crimes, and there was not the slightest evidence of the sackcloth in Wangenheim's attitude now. Germany had made a bad guess, that was all; what Wangenheim and the other Germans saw in the situation was that their stock of wheat, cotton and copper was inadequate for a protracted struggle.

In my notes of my conversations with Wangenheim I find him frequently using such phrases as the "next war," "next time," and, in confidently looking forward to another greater world cataclysm than the present, he merely reflected the attitude of the dominant junker-military class. The Germans apparently wanted a reconciliation—a kind of an armistice — that would give their generals and industrial leaders time to prepare for the next conflict. At that time Germany was moving for practically the same kind of peace negotiations which she has suggested many times since and is suggesting now; Wangenheim's plan was that representatives of the warring powers should gather around a table and settle things on the principle of "give and take." He said that there was no sense in demanding that each side state its terms in advance.

CHAPTER XV.

ALLIED FLEET BOMBARDING THE DARDANELLES.

Probably one thing that stimulated this German desire for peace was the situation at the Dardanelles. In early January Constantinople was in a state of the utmost excitement. It was reported that the allies had assembled a fleet of forty warships at the mouth of the Dardanelles, and that they intended to attempt the forcing of the straits.

What made the situation particularly tense was the belief, which then generally prevailed in Constantinople, that such an attempt would succeed. Wangenheim shared this belief, and so in a modified form, did Von der Goltz, who probably knew as much about the Dardanelles defences as any other man, as he had for years been Turkey's military instructor. I find in my diary Von der Goltz's precise opinion on this point, as reported to me by Wangenheim, and I quote it exactly as written at that time: "Although he thought it was almost impossible to force the Dardanelles, still, if England thought it an important move of the general war, they could, by sacrificing ten ships, force the entrance, and do it very fast, and be up in the Marmora within ten hours from the time they forced it."

The very day that Wangenheim gave me this expert opinion of Von der Goltz he asked me to store several cases of his valuables in the American embassy. Evidently he was making preparations for his own departure.

Reading the Cromer report on the Dardanelles bombardment, I find that Admiral Sir John Fisher, then first sea lord, placed the price of success at twelve ships. Evidently Von der Goltz and Fisher did not differ materially in their estimates.

TURKEY IN DESPERATE STRAITS.

The situation of Turkey, when these first rumors of an allied bombardment reached us, was fairly desperate. On all sides there were evidences of the fear and panic that had stricken not only the populace but the official classes. [illegible] from all sides were apparently closing in on the capital. Up to January 1, 1915, Turkey had done nothing to justify her participation in the war; on the contrary, she had met defeat practically everywhere.

Djemal, as already recorded, had left Constantinople as the prospective "conqueror of Egypt," but this expedition had proved to be a bloody and humiliating failure. Enver's attempt to redeem the Caucasus from Russian rule had resulted in an even more frightful military disaster. He had ignored the advice of the Germans, which was to let the Russians advance to Sivas and make his stand there, and, instead, he had boldly attempted to gain Russian territory in the Caucasus. This army had been defeated at every point, but the military reverses did not end its sufferings.

The Turks had a most inadequate medical and sanitary service; typhus and dysentery broke out in all the camps, the deaths from these diseases reaching [illegible] men. Dreadful stories were constantly coming in, telling of the sufferings of these soldiers.

That England was preparing an invasion of Mesopotamia was well known, and no one at that time had any reason to believe that it would not succeed. Every day the Turks expected the news that the Bulgarians had declared war and were marching on Constantinople, and they knew that such an attack would necessarily bring in Rumania and Greece.

It was no diplomatic secret that Italy was waiting only for the arrival of warm weather to join the allies. At this moment the Russian fleet was bombarding Trebizond on the Black Sea and was daily expected at the entrance to the Bosphorus.

THOUSANDS DIE OF HUNGER.

Meanwhile the domestic situation was deplorable; all over Turkey thousands of the populace were daily dying of starvation, practically all able-bodied men had been taken into the army, so that only a few were left to till the fields; the crushing requisitions had almost destroyed all business; the treasury was in a more exhausted state than normally; the closing of the Dardanelles and the blockading of the Mediterranean ports had stopped all imports and customs dues; and the increasing wrath of the people seemed likely any day to break out against Talaat and his associates.

And now, surrounded by increasing trouble on every hand, the Turks learned that the mighty armada of England and her [illegible] was approaching the Dardanelles [illegible] and capture Constantinople. At that time [illegible] Turks [illegible] feared the British fleet. The condition [illegible] of [illegible] had [illegible] their [illegible]. It seemed [illegible] power which I was [illegible].

Wangenheim [illegible] nearly all of the [illegible] the forcing of the Dardanelles [illegible] but they [illegible] it [illegible].

Wangenheim himself shared the fear that a successful bombardment would lead to riots and massacres in Constantinople as well as in the rest of Turkey. In anticipation of such disturbances he made a characteristic suggestion. Should the fleet pass the Dardanelles, he said, the life of no Englishman in Turkey would be safe—they would all be massacred. As it was so difficult to tell an Englishman from an American, he proposed that I should give the Americans a distinctive button to wear, which would protect them from Turkish violence. As I was convinced that Wangenheim's real purpose was to arrange some sure means of identifying the English and of so exposing them to Turkish ill-treatment, I refused to act on this amiable suggestion.

Her Grandma Used Sage Tea To Darken Her Hair.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

No Mystery in Meat

Some things are so simple that they have to be explained again and again. When things are obvious, people keep looking for mysteries behind them.

So it is with the packing business. The mere size of Swift & Company confuses many. Because their imaginations are not geared up to scale, they believe there must be magic in it somewhere—some weird power.

Swift & Company is just like any other manufacturing business, run by human beings like yourself; it takes in raw material on the one hand and turns out a finished product on the other.

Swift & Company keeps down the "spread", or the expense absorbed between raw and finished material, to as low a figure as possible. (If it didn't it would be put out of business by others who do.)

How much Swift & Company pays for the raw material, and how much it gets for the finished product, depends upon conditions which Swift & Company does not control.

It depends entirely upon how much people want the finished product, and how much raw material there is available to make it from.

The profits of Swift & Company amount to less than one cent per pound on all meats and by-products, —less than one-fourth of a cent on beef.

Women In Industry
No Longer An Experiment

Women are being welcomed by the men workers of our mills and factories where formerly a woman had never worked at the bench or machine.

Now things are different, women have proven their efficiency in nearly every line of industry except where the work requires heavy lifting and in some special skilled line of labor.

Women have done wonders in this war which is now nearing a glorious end since our brave boys and our Allies have been winning on every front.

Peace may be here any day now, but we must not stop work because production must be kept up. That is what the Government asks of us so we must not fail.

Remember: it takes eight men here to supply one soldier in the trenches. Who will fill the industrial gap? The inevitable answer in this crisis, as never before in world history, is

WOMEN WOMEN WOMEN WOMEN

Increased and ceaseless production of war supplies is necessary to victory. War Industry calls: "I am perilously short of men."

Manufacturers are awake. They have opened their doors to women. As the soldier-to-be gets "God speed" at the factory door, the woman worker gets "Welcome" coming in.

The situation brooks no argument. The wheels of industry dare not halt. Women MUST CLOSE UP THE INDUSTRIAL GAP here as they have done in our Allied countries.

Women Will Be Needed in Industry After the War. Think of the Rehabilitation of Europe—And What We Must Supply

This is one of a series of full page appeals to the women of New England, asking them to respond to the call of our nation and enter some line of industry to help win the war.

LONG AND WALSH ENDORSED BY DANIELS IN WILSON WAR ON AUTOCRACY

"The only armistice which President Wilson will agree upon is an armistice which will make it impossible for a German soldier to have a gun or do any further damage in the world."

Thus did Secretary of the Navy Daniels in his Tremont Temple speech tersely state the only terms upon which President Wilson will consent to an armistice with the enemy.

"I know something about the terms which will be proposed by General Pershing and by Admirals Sims and Benson at the war council meeting," said Secretary Daniels, "and I can assure you definitely that the President will never agree to any terms which will not make Germany powerless before the allies. President Wilson is not discussing negotiations, but surrender.

HOPING FOR PEACE.

"We are hoping for peace, but we are getting ready harder than ever for war. Not a transport has been stopped, and from one end of the country to the other long lines of trains are carrying our troops to the seaboard.

"And we will keep sending them to France until, with our allies, we have arrived at the only kind of an armistice that the President can agree upon, an armistice which will see autocracy doomed, dead and damned."

ADDRESSES 30,000 PERSONS.

Secretary Daniels made a whirlwind tour of Boston and vicinity, making seven addresses to more than 30,000 persons and was on his way early today to New Hampshire to urge the election by the people of that State of Senators who would uphold the hands of President Wilson.

He paid his respects while here to "peanut politicians" and "junkers," who were criticizing the President, urged the election to the Senate of ex-Governor David I. Walsh, scored Senators Lodge and Weeks for not voting for woman suffrage and declared that the motive behind Republican attacks on President Wilson's fourteen peace points "was so plain a nine-year-old boy could see it."

"They are trying to submarine President Wilson, but their torpedoes will not work," he said. "You never would have heard a word of criticism from these Republicans if there was not an election within the next ten days."

VISITS NAVY YARD.

The Secretary began his day by visiting the Navy Yard and speaking to the 8,000 men employed there, and ended by addressing an audience of 4,000 in Tremont Temple in the evening. In between he spoke to the thousands of employes at Squantum and Fore River plants, addressed an open-air rally at Central Square, Lynn, cheered and heartened the members of State, county and city committees at a dinner in the Quincy House by predicting Democratic victory and addressed a meeting in Faneuil Hall, which was all too small to accommodate the crowd which tried to press in.

"Support the administration" was the keynote of his speeches everywhere. "The American people supported Lincoln in '62 and President McKinley in '98 when the country was at war," he declared fervently. "If it was right to give President Lincoln a Congress in sympathy with him, if it was right, as Mr. Roosevelt and Senator Lodge said, to give President McKinley a Congress in sympathy with him, what has happened not to make it imperative in America today to give to Woodrow Wilson what you gave to Abraham Lincoln and William McKinley."

At Faneuil Hall he discussed President Wilson's fourteen peace points and said that the Republican politicians, after nine months' search for an issue and failing to find one, had raised this as the only issue.

WOULD EDUCATE REPUBLICANS.

"It is a pity that the Republican politicians who put party above country have not learned how to read English," he said in commenting upon the clearness with which the terms were stated. "If they were in the Navy, I would send them to school.

"They say that President Wilson injected politics into the campaign," he said, commenting upon Republican criticism of the President's appeal for a Congress that would support him. "It was not President Wilson who injected politics into this campaign, it was the Republican politicians who declared they were the only patriots and the only people who had the wisdom to stand for American rights.

"I heard a peanut politician say the other day, 'I am afraid that Woodrow Wilson, despite his matchless leadership, is going to be fooled by the Vons.' And I replied, 'The Von was never born that can pull the wool over Woodrow Wilson's eyes.'

JUNKERS ATTACK WILSON.

"'I don't like the kind of notes President Wilson is writing on his typewriter,' said a man who is a Senator to me. Well, neither does the Kaiser. Most of the criticism of Woodrow Wilson is being made by a handful of junkers and Brahmins.

"If a Congress is elected hostile to Woodrow Wilson it will be to give dissension to our councils instead of unity and promptness of decision. Outside of those measures upon which public opinion was so centered that opposition meant political death, the vocal Republican leadership of the country has been as the President says, anti-administration.

"It is very easy for political leaders to declare how loyal has been their support of war measures, but when they raise the issue they must be held to the record. Without money, no war can be successfully prosecuted. On revenue measures, the only way to raise money from the people except by bond issues, the Republican record is one which cannot bear the light of day.

ASKS ELECTION OF WALSH.

"Some of these Republican leaders declare that they have been standing behind the President and some of them have been standing so far back of him that he could not see them. The State of Massachusetts will not only serve its own interests but it will serve the republic if it will send to the United States Senate ex-Governor David I. Walsh.

"He will not stand against the shipping bill, but for it; he will not stand against woman suffrage, but for it; and he will stand for the rights of labor, not against them. In the years to come when the gravest issues in all our history are to be settled it will be a glorious thing if this Commonwealth, represented by Sumner, Hoar and other great men who belonged to the republic and the world, shall have in the Senate a man who will not say whoa to progress but will stand for it every day and every year.

"I am sorry to see in the State of Massachusetts, which gave us Horace Mann, who opened the schoolhouses to every child in America, two Senators who have not the wisdom to give suffrage to the women of this Commonwealth."

At the Tremont Temple rally, Secretary Daniels apologized to the women present for not being able to address them as "citizens."

On his trips he was accompanied by Richard H. Long, Democratic nominee for Governor, whose business judgment he praised. He declared he had the qualities to make a good Governor, and said he knew this from his own personal knowledge of the man.

Initiative and Referendum Advocated by Daniels

I have been an advocate of the Initiative and Referendum for many years, not as a party measure, but because it is the modern embodiment of the principle of self-government. It should commend itself to every American who had escaped from the old world traditions of class or minority rule.

Its great benefits are unseen and unheralded since it bestows upon the people powers that always have and always will react to improve and stabilize representative government by bringing it closer to the people.

I sincerely hope that the citizens of Massachusetts will vote this power to themselves for their own welfare, and to prove to the nation and to the world that the spirit of liberty still lives here on the soil where American liberty had its early inspiration. Otherwise, what shall you say to our boys when they come home? And how can be justify democracy to Europe by rejecting it in America?—Statement in Boston by Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy.

EARLIER TRIAL IS SOUGHT FOR MRS. SKEELS

Claiming that delay is jeopardizing the life of his client, Daniel J. Daley, counsel for Mrs. Bessie May Skeels, will appear before the Lawrence Superior Court tomorrow with a new motion for a speedy trial for Mrs. Skeels, not later than December. The woman, a former nurse in Andover, is under indictment for the murder of Miss Florence Gay, a teacher in that town.

The motion will be argutd before Judge Hammond, and at the same time a decision will be reached as to where Mrs. Skeels will be detained until such time as she is tried. At present she is in the Lawrence General Hospital, where she has been since August 25. Several times since that date her life has been despaired of, and specialists called in consultation have advised an operation as the only means of guaranteeing a recovery. This Mrs. Skeels has refused to undergo.

The trial has been set for February 24, when Attorney General Henry C. Attwill will conduct the government's side of the case.

Should his motion be denied, Attorney Daley plans to carry it to the Supreme Court.

DANIELS VISITS PORTSMOUTH NAVY YARD

Portsmouth, N. H., Oct. 31.—Secretary Daniels inspected the Portsmouth Navy Yard and the Portsmouth Naval Prison this afternoon. Later he attended the dedicatory services of a Y. M. C. A. hut.

Mr. Daniels congratulated the workers there on the cheer and comfort they were able to bring into the lives of the enlisted men. Much of Secretary Daniels' speech was directed to the enlisted men.

At the Naval Prison, Secretary Daniels complimented Lieutenant Commander Thomas Mott Osborne, warden, for the excellent condition of the prisoners.

Mr. Daniels went by auto from Portsmouth to Dover and Durham, where he addressed the members of the S. A. T. C. at New Hampshire State College. He then continued to Manchester, where he was to hold a reception in City Hall previous to his main speech of the New Hampshire campaign to be delivered tonight.

AYER GRADUATES SERGEANTS AND CORPORALS

By THOMAS F. PHELAN.

Camp Devens, Ayer, Oct. 31.—Five hundred men of the non-commissioned officers' training school, members of the 151st Depot Brigade, are graduated today. Each man receives a warrant as sergeant and corporal. The exercises are held on the 12th Battalion drill ground. Major Russell Hatch officiates.

Francis Wallace of El Paso, Tex., won first prize in the rifle competition, participated in by the four best men from each company of the school. He represented Company No. 45 of the Depot Brigade.

BOXING BOUTS TONIGHT.

A battle royal will be a feature of the all-star boxing tournament to be held in the "Y" auditorium this evening.

Agents of the Department of Justice arrested Alfred Hartmann, twenty, of Green street, Boston, on the charge of being an alien. He was employed by a camp contractor. He was taken to Boston. A labor unit has been organized among the colored soldiers, who will perform necessary camp work. A flat wage of $3.50 per day will be paid each man for his services. The men will be put to work immediately making excavations for cellars for the new buildings to be erected here.

Though 12,000 Massachusetts soldiers were qualified to vote in the State election, not more than 100 did so. The election was held in "Y" hut No. 23. An automobile with a banner advertising the candidacy of Congressman Tague for re-election and filled with Charlestown men caused former Representative John F. McCarthy of Dorchester, a supporter of former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, to enter a protest, which was taken under advisement by the military authorities. The Tague men had stickers bearing their candidate's name and urged the soldiers from the 10th Massachusetts District to paste them on the ballot.

The taking of photographs of individuals or groups with tents or other buildings as a background will not be permitted hereafter. An order to that effect was issued today. The provost guard will also see to it that no person takes tintypes. All commercial photographers doing business through post exchanges will be required to use the post exchange building as a background for their pictures.

CHANCE FOR COMMISSIONS.

On November 8 there will be an examination of applicants for commissions as second lieutenants in the Quartermaster corps.

A review of different units of the Plymouth Division will be held this evening.

Hallowe'en parties were held in all parts of the camp. Officers and soldiers made merry. The biggest event was at the barracks of the 12th Battalion.

Majors Jean Malva and Jules Bellot and Captain V. Helpert of the French Mission have received instructions to proceed to Camp Sevier, South Carolina, when their work is finished at the Camp Staff School.

Members of A Company, 26th Machine Gun Battalion, at Camp Devens, whose military concert and ball was to have taken place on Friday evening, October 18, announce that the event has been postponed to Friday evening, November 1, when it will be held in Mechanics Hall, in Worcester. The event which will be one of the foremost of the season, will be attended by all of the officers of the camp. Among the novelties promised will be the machine gun drill by members of the company. Music will be furnished by the 36th Infantry orchestra.

The committee in charge comprises Corporal W. V. McKeon, chairman; assisted by Sergeants J. J. Kelley, John F. Holmes, Charles F. Lindsley and Private John F. Mullaney.

Says Prisoners Well Fed, Dressed; Send Own Bread Home

First-hand information regarding the condition of the average German soldier taken prisoner is given by a Wollaston boy, Stewart Dinsen, who is overseas with the disbursing officer of the Quartermaster Corps. He says in a letter:

"The prisoners who come through here are about the same age as our own men. They certainly don't look hungry, either, and their clothes are of good material. On the other hand, some of the prisoners have letters on them telling that things at home, in Germany, are pretty tough. Many of the German soldiers have been in the habit of sending half of their bread home, so I guess the civilian population is in bad shape."

HAIR CUTS ARE 15 CENTS TO SAILORS

U. S. Naval Radio School, Cambridge, Oct. 31.—The high cost of repairing, so to speak, has flown high over the heads of radio students. Civilian shops, whether they be barbers, cobblers or tailors, may no longer relieve the luckless "gob" of his hard-earned—and limited—pay by charging war time prices.

Enterprising sailors have attended to all that. Hereafter, a sailor may obtain a hair cut for 15 cents. A massage may be had at the Radio barber shop for 15 cents—with all the accompanying noises and shivers. A shave costs 10 cents.

Therefore, if civilian shops want the trade of Radio students their prices must meet the level maintained at the Radio school. For, in addition to lower prices, Radio students maintain that the workmanship at the school barber shop is equal to any to be had in civilian shops.

FAMOUS FRENCH ORCHESTRA IN FINE CONCERT

By FRED J. McISAAC.

That the orchestra of the Conservatory of Paris, France's greatest symphonic organization, which is composed of the faculty of the great Parisian musical institution, would ever find time to tour America, is something that no one would admit before the war.

But here it is, like so many other wonderful things from Europe which the world war has sent to America.

Led by Andre Messager, one of the most famous French conductors of the past thirty years, this superb orchestra gave a concert in Symphony Hall last evening under the auspices of the French government.

Like all other musical organizations in the world the war has undoubtedly injured the Societe des Concerts du Conservatoire, nevertheless it is a very wonderful band which Messager is conducting.

There was a capacity audience in Symphony Hall to greet the Frenchmen, and when the white mustached Messager mounted his stand the whole house rose to its feet to greet him. Amidst the greatest enthusiasm the "Star Spangled Banner" and the "Marseillaise" was performed and then the regular concert began.

The program was excessively long from an American standpoint. We consider an hour and a half the right length for a symphony concert. Messager had arranged a bill which took nearly three hours to perform.

Perhaps he felt that Boston required a particularly complete exposition of the virtues of an orchestra which is unlikely ever to return.

The program included Beethoven's Symphony in C minor No. 5.

Saint Saens' pianoforte concert in C minor No. 4, Debussy's Apres-Midi d'un Faune, a Symphonic piece by Cesar Franck from "The Redemption" and two overtures, Bizet's "Patrie" and Berlioz's "Carnaval Romain."

Under the circumstances it would be invidious to criticize the work of this orchestra and in fact there is precious little to criticize. It is without doubt the best symphony orchestra which ever visited Boston, and to say that it is worthy of comparison with our own orchestra is the highest praise a Bostonian can give it.

The strings were notable for sweetness and elegance of tone, the woodwinds beautiful in quality, and the brasses alone open to the least complaint.

Messager is a careful, painstaking conductor, who seeks rather a clean cut and well-rounded performance than the furious contrasts which appeal to the Germans and Italians. Thus the effect upon a discriminating American audience is rather respectful than enthusiastic.

Alfred Cortot, the assisting soloist, is one of the most celebrated of French pianists. He is a brilliant and gifted player and his work in the Saint Saens concerto was most admirable.

How To Avoid INFLUENZA

Nothing you can do will so effectually protect you against the Influenza or Grippe epidemic as keeping your organs of digestion and elimination active and your system free from poisonous accumulations.

Doctors and health authorities everywhere are warning people of the danger of constipation, and advising, and urging everyone to see that the bowels and other eliminative organs act freely and regularly.

Ordinary laxatives, purges and cathartics, salts, oils, calomel and the like, are good enough to clean out the system, but do not strengthen the weakened organs; they do not build up vitality.

Why don't you begin right today to overcome constipation and get your system in such shape that you can feel reasonably sure of resisting disease. You can do so if you will just get a 25c. box of Nature's Remedy (NR Tablets) and take one each night for a while.

NR Tablets do much more than merely cause pleasant, easy bowel action. This medicine acts upon the digestive as well as eliminative organs, promotes good digestion, causes the body to get the nourishment from all the food you eat, gives you a good, hearty appetite, strengthens the liver, overcomes biliousness, regulates kidney and bowel action and gives the whole body a thorough cleaning out. This accomplished you will not have to take medicine every day. An occasional NR Tablet will keep your body in condition and you can always feel your best. Sold and recommended by druggists.

Filene's—MEN'S SHOPS

MEN who seek a little inside information on "good investments" will find a clothing dollar buys much more than usual war-time style-and-wear in these typical

filene values

Suits $21.50

men's and young men's, sizes 33-44

Not a sale—Filene values are every-day matters. Not bought for advertising purposes—but an example of Filene buying power.

¶ Two models—standard, and young man's popular "waist-line"; trousers with reinforced crotch.

¶ One fabric—oxford cheviot.

¶ All sizes; quantities not unlimited.

Price seems low on today's market—and it is. But these suits were not bought yesterday.

Styles are limited to two—one for conservative tastes and one not so conservative. Coat full mohair lined; trousers with reinforced crotch. Cutting out more than these two styles kept the prices down.

Fabrics, trimming, making, look like much more money. In fact, this is a mighty good purchase not merely for the men who want to, or must economize, but also as an extra suit for the men who generally pay a good deal more.

Other suits, of course, up to $65. Stein-Blochs up to $55.

Second floor—by men's escalator from Washington street

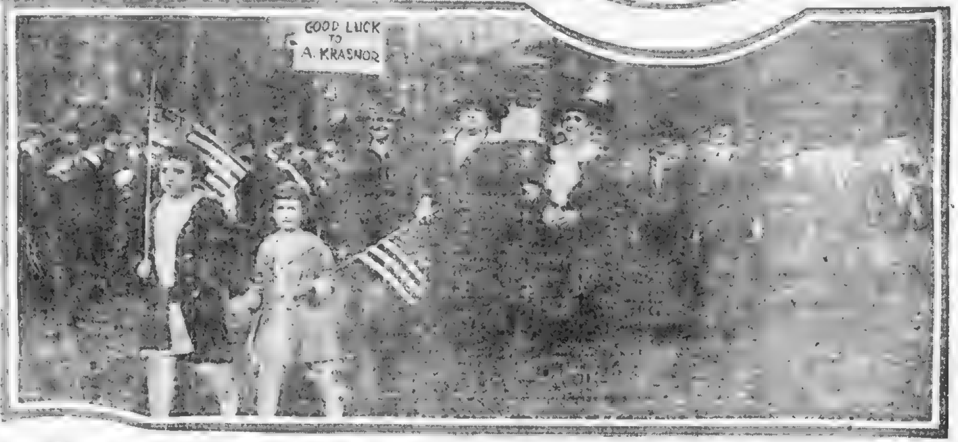
Some of the "Smiles" to Be Sent Overseas Snapped on the Common

Boston war babies filmed in first installment of "Smiles Across the Sea," the greatest moving picture serial in the world. Robert Haum, four months old, who resides at No. 1293 Washington street, South End, is shown on the left, while the picture on the right is that of Mary Harrington, one year, of No. 92 Compton street, South End.

Here we have a Boston war bride, Mrs. Almon Martin [illegible] Astor street. On the right are Mrs. Alfred W. Cooke and baby Alfred, three months, of No. 38 West Cedar street. These pictures, together with the other pictures on this page, will be shown in moving picture form to the boys "overseas." They are intended to make glad the hearts of the fighters in France, to give [illegible] and comfort to them. All persons shown in today's pictures hail from the North, West and South Ends and the B[illegible] district as far as St. Mary's street. Each has a relative or sweetheart in the big army overseas. Other districts will [illegible]. There is no expense connected with the [illegible] pictures. All costs and responsibility will be assumed by [illegible] Randolph Hearst [illegible]



Dressed in their best and wreathed in smiles, relatives and sweethearts of Boston soldiers march in parade [illegible] the historic Common. Many are wearing signs of identification so that their boy "over there" may be able to pick them out as the pictures are thrown on the screen in France.

Miss Mary Rickman brought along her tag of identification so that George would make no mistake.

Pretty little Dorothy Fallon of No. 17 Field street, Roxbury, sends a smile to daddy "over there."

Unique scene in "Grand March." An anxious mother holding photograph of soldier son.

"Hello, Kelly, here's Miriam!" fits this picture to a T; Miriam just wants to tell "Kell" that all are well at home,

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The Kind You Have Always Bought

THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY

If a Boston soldier were carried back to his war-bride —a hopeless cripple

Her husband was reported missing. She finally heard that he was captured. Then she waited and waited and waited without news. At last, he was brought home and set down before her a helpless wreck of a man. And then they tried to take up their lives where they had broken off when he went to war.

But the difference in him and the difference in her, and the difference in the other man who had stayed behind—these were the elements which they didn't estimate in their gay, youthful romance.

It's the story of the lives of thousands in England today and in America tomorrow—the first story that I. A. R. Wylie has written since "Towards Morning."

You will find it in the November GOOD HOUSEKEEPING—the magazine which has so many helpful and useful features that sometimes you forget the really surpassing quality of its fiction.

Yet, in the same number, besides Miss Wylie, you will find Kathleen Norris, James Oliver Curwood and Arthur Somers Roche (whose German spy novel, "The Web of the Spider" is rousing so much comment), as well as contributions by Woodrow Wilson, Dr. Wiley, Clara Savage (from France), and ex-Ambassador Morgenthau. Don't fail to get it!

"Not before next Summer," Elizabeth told her.

For this was one of the points on which she had changed her mind. In her unsettled condition she had planned to marry as soon as possible. Now that she was to share her brother's little apartment in Riverhill for the Winter, she was willing to have an opportunity to become accustomed to her new happiness and to make the acquaintance of her future sister-in-law and of John's mother.

Investing in Yourself

By Loretto C. Lynch

It [illegible] happens that the housewife [illegible] thrown upon her own resources presents a pitiful spectacle. Not indeed, not because she is a housewife but simply because she has not prepared herself to make a living [illegible] so often she has to accept the most [illegible]

[illegible] a thrifty woman [illegible] and she has perhaps a bit [illegible] Every housewife should think seriously and ask herself: "If I had to make a living for myself and children, what would I do?"

Many women will tell [illegible] that [illegible] that they [illegible] other [illegible] sent to [illegible] if ever [illegible] the woman [illegible] usually [illegible] the woman [illegible] always seems to be selected by the Fates for making her own living?

Four or five years ago in a Western city I asked an acquaintance if I might call on her, and I named a particular evening.

"Please [illegible] Monday or Tuesday evening," she said. "You know I'm taking a course down at the 'Y' and I can't miss a lesson."

And when I called on another evening she explained:

"No, I'm not thinking of leaving my [illegible] or anything of that kind, but I feel that I ought to have [illegible] in my hands. [illegible] and Mary are growing up and they will want [illegible] better than we can afford to buy [illegible] at the [illegible] few nights of each week and I felt that I ought not be wasting every evening sitting around chatting."

Anecdotes of the Famous

Here is a story told by the Marchioness of Waterford, who was recently married to the Duke of St. Albans' heir. It concerns a woman and one of those men-who-know-everything that are the bane of social intercourse always and everywhere.

The subject under discussion was names and their origins.

"Now, I have a nephew with rather a curious name," said a quiet woman with white hair. "He was christened Judmar."

"Judmar!" rudely interrupted the man-who-knew-everything. "Judmar! Why, that's obviously from the Kalmuck Judmarah, meaning 'shining warrior.' It occurs also in Techali. I remember coming across the name Judmaroosh when I was living in Kajmachatan, among the Techalis. Clearly the same name."

The M. W. K. E. paused for breath and the elderly lady resumed her interrupted sentence.

"He was christened Judmar," she said, "because his mother had two favorite aunts, Judy and Mary."

Even burglars sometimes possess a sense of the artistic, and the trio who attempted the confiscation of Gabriele d'Annunzio's treasures a while back were as versed in the art of graceful speeches as a government diplomat.

The airman-poet surprised them in the middle of their work. They, on their part, appeared equally surprised, and suggested, as a compliment to the owner's talents, returning the whole of the booty taken in return for his silence. Their offer was accepted, and, strange to relate, they kept their half of the bargain and every single article was restored.

Hints for Household

The uses to which eggs may be put are many, apart from their employment as food. A mustard plaster mixed with the white of an egg will not leave a blister. The white skin that lines the shell of an egg is a useful application for a boil. The white of an egg beaten with loaf sugar and lemon relieves hoarseness, a teaspoonful taken once every hour. An egg added to the morning cup of coffee makes an invigorating tonic. A raw egg with the yolk unbroken taken in a glass of wine is beneficial for convalescents.

Colds Lead to Spanish Influenza

A coughing, sneezing person is a danger to all he meets. He spreads the germs and infects others. He owes it to himself and to his community to kill a cold as soon as it appears.
Neglected colds pull down the system. The victim is in danger of pneumonia and Spanish Influenza because he has no power of resistance.
Exercise and fresh air, with plenty of rest and good food, are the best protection.
But if you do catch cold, for your own sake and for the sake of public health kill it at once. Take

Youthful Spenders

AND GIRLS WHO ENCOURAGE THEM

Beatrice Fairfax Urges Young People Not to Judge Each Other by the Treating Habit

By Beatrice Fairfax

I WISH that some of the young girls among my correspondents would form a club to discourage the unnecessary spending of money by their young men friends—spending, I mean, for the [illegible] entertainment of these young girls themselves.

As everybody knows, it's very [illegible] easier to take a sensible but [illegible] stand if you can do so as a member of a club or movement. [illegible] hard but [illegible] pleasure [illegible] that form [illegible] girls are doing at the [illegible] the same way.

[illegible] readily agree with me [illegible] of the [illegible] to the [illegible] of the system [illegible] present exchange, [illegible] a Society for the Prevention of Useless Giving [illegible] good [illegible] knowledge that such a society [illegible] existed has helped [illegible] people to make themselves [illegible] free from bondage to custom and [illegible] girls in making [illegible] gift [illegible] be a sincere expression of goodwill.

But the multiplication of presents once a year to distant relatives whom one barely knows and to acquaintances whom one may actually dislike isn't the only form of useless giving. What I have [illegible] the endless [illegible] expenditures for [illegible] wage earning [illegible] afford [illegible] seems [illegible] girls [illegible] therefore [illegible]

But I am afraid that they go beyond the point of allowing [illegible] that they fairly demand it.

Most of these girls are wage earners themselves. They know that a paycheck is given in exchange for the greater part of one's life and energy and that money so gained should not be thrown away foolishly—as a matter of daily habit, that is — for of course the most wise and prudent of us have to be foolish now and then.

The most conservative "spender" knows the least he can do is to take the girl to the moving pictures and that she will expect ice cream and [illegible] both before and after. Even this modest outlay, repeated at least five nights a week, will consume at least half his salary. And if the really riotous and showy "spender," the one whom the girls most admire and applaud and display their smiles for, keeps out of the treacherous slough of debt I am greatly surprised.

Meanwhile what of the young men who have really serious obligations, who are helping to support an infirm parent or young brothers and sisters and whose income so evenly matches their outgo that there is practically nothing left over for theatres and ice cream? Are they to suffer social ostracism because of their very decency and responsibility and to be despised by thoughtless, greedy girls because they cannot enter the silly spending game?

It is quite likely that many girls will seriously ask me what alternative I propose. They will ask me if I advocate the giving up of their men friends altogether. Walking up and down the street together isn't possible, they will remind me, and there is no refuge from the suburban drug store to the Broadway theatre [illegible] doesn't involve expense.

No, I do not suggest the renouncing of all social life. And I should not expect Eighteen and Nineteen to listen to me for a moment if I urged that it is possible to have distraction without going out for it. I will confess that it does seem to me more wise and reasonable for girls and boys to meet in group parties or Welsh-rarebit parties or being amused and I think also a whatever they like than always to go out in pairs to places of public amusement. There is no question but that this is a cheaper way of being amused and I think also a wholesomer one.

BARBER GIVES RECIPE FOR GRAY HAIR

Tells How to Make a Home-Made Gray Hair Remedy.

Mr. A. E. O'Brien, who has been a barber in New York City for many years, made the following statement: "Gray, streaked or faded hair can be immediately made black, brown or light brown, whichever shade you desire, by the use of the following remedy that you can make at home:

"Merely get a small box of Orlex powder at any drug store. It costs very little and no extras to buy. Dissolve it in water and comb it through the hair. Full directions for mixing and use come in each box.

"You need not hesitate to use Orlex, as a $100.00 gold bond comes in each box guaranteeing the user that Orlex powder does not contain silver, lead, zinc, sulphur, mercury, aniline, coal-tar products or their derivatives.

"It does not rub off, is not sticky or gummy and leaves the hair fluffy. It will make a gray haired person look twenty years younger."

The DOCTOR'S ADVICE

by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Elwood streets, Dayton, Ohio, enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious names will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

Mrs. L. L. writes: "I am informed that I have kidney trouble and that it is fast approaching a serious stage. What would you prescribe?"

Answer: If your symptoms are the usual ones, such as puffs under the eyes, swelling ankles, scant, copious or foul-smelling urine, accompanied by headaches, pains, depression, fever, chills, etc., I would advise the immediate use of balmwort tablets, a very fine remedy for such difficulties, sold in sealed tubes with full directions for self-administration.

Pimples writes: "Please tell me what to take to get rid of pimples, boils and bad blood. I know I need a constipation remedy."

Answer: It is probably neglect of constipation that has made your blood bad. Begin a thorough treatment of three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur tablets). Continue for several months.

K. A. asks: "My hair is too oily and my scalp itches with dandruff, and of late it is combing out too much. What is a good treatment?"

Answer: Obtain plain yellow minyol from your druggist in 4-oz. jars and apply as per directions. This cleans, purifies, cools and invigorates the hair and scalp, thus stopping the death of the hair. Dandruff and itching are at once relieved. Men and women all over the country now use it regularly.

"Bertha" says: "Some time ago I contracted a very severe cold and cough. I have tried many remedies, but they do not seem to help me at all. I wish you would advise me what to do."

Answer: What you need is a laxative cough syrup, one that will drive the cold from your system. The following prescription will check your cold and cough. Get a 2½-oz. package of concentrated essence mentho-laxene and make according to directions on the bottle. Take a teaspoonful every hour or two until your cold is better. This will relieve you in a very few days.

Henry F. writes: "Perhaps you can prescribe for me, as I am at a loss to understand my condition. For the past year have suffered extreme nervousness, trembling and extremities are cold. Have poor appetite, am weak, listless and no ambition to work or seek recreation. Am tired all the time and in no sense the strong, capable man I was a few years ago."

Answer: A powerful rejuvenating nerve medicine should revive the dormant sluggish condition and put new ambition and energy into your blood and nerves. Obtain three grain cadomene tablets in sealed tubes, take as per directions.

NOTE: For many years Dr. Baker has been giving free advice and prescriptions to millions of people through the press columns, and doubtless has helped in relieving illness and distress more than any single individual in the world's history. Thousands have written him expressions of gratitude and confidence similar to the following:

Dr. Lewis Baker, Dear Sir:—I happened a few days ago to read The Pittsburgh Leader and there I noticed your column of questions and answers. I also noticed that you advised those that are suffering from constipation to use sulpherb tablets, and have tried. To my amazement it has made a new man out of me. I have been suffering from constipation for the last 5 years and have tried various remedies without avail. I am so grateful to you that I don't know how to thank you for it. Would be very glad to recommend it to anybody. Very truly yours,

STOLEN MONEY USED TO HELP U.S. IN WAR?

Investigation into the affairs of W. Padilla Gray, treasurer and tax collector of Stoneham, under [illegible] bail charged with embezzling $15,000 from the town, seem to indicate that he was victim of a mania for buying Liberty Bonds. So far as the investigators have been able to find up to this time this was the young man's only dissipation and it is alleged, as fast as he got his hands on town funds he invested them in bonds in his own name.

The mystery is what has become of the bonds. He is said to have told intimate friends conflicting stories in regard to this point. To some he said that while on a tugboat in Boston harbor he lost them overboard; to others he claimed to have been aboard a ferryboat and had them swept into the harbor by the wind.

At present it is impossible to state how long a period the alleged larcenies cover. He has been town treasurer for the past eight years, having succeeded Fred E. Nickerson. In 1916 he was made deputy tax collector, succeeding F. A. Lawrence. He became collector last year.

He is the son of L. E. H. Gray, a former selectman, and has been considered a model young man. He is organist of the First Congregational Church and senior warden of King Cyrus Lodge of Masons. His bonds were furnished by "Uncle Wesley" Gray, a relative, who is a large land owner here, and regarded as a man of wealth.

He was in Class A-1 of the last draft, but about six weeks ago enlisted with the Shipping Board. That he had done this was unknown even to town officials here, until the local draft board received notice from the Shipping Board.

Investigation into his accounts was brought about by the fact that he was using Boston instead of local banks. He has personal accounts in two Boston banks. The local banks would pay the town interest on its money, whereas the Boston banks did not. The town auditors, in going over his books, found an item showing he had given his personal check for $1,500 worth of Liberty Bonds, which were credited to the town. Later the State auditors were called in. They are still at work on his books, having found a shortage of about $15,000 to date, it is claimed.

Gray, who is thirty-four years old, told a friend that he had invested the sum in question in Liberty Bonds. These bonds, he said, he had in his inside coat pocket. He went aboard a tug in the course of his duties for the Shipping Board. A sharp-pointed ring he was wearing caught in the bonds and they fell overboard. To another friend he said he had the bonds in his hat, which blew off as he was crossing the East Boston ferry.

Efforts have been made to keep the affair quiet. Gray was arraigned at a special sitting of court in Woburn before Judge Johnson.

BETTER THAN CALOMEL

Thousands Have Discovered Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are a Harmless Substitute

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the substitute for calomel—are a mild but sure laxative, and their effect on the liver is almost instantaneous. They are the result of Dr. Edwards's determination not to treat liver and bowel complaints with calomel. His efforts to banish it brought out these little olive-colored tablets.

The pleasant little tablets do the good that calomel does, but have no bad after effects. They don't injure the teeth like strong liquids or calomel. They take hold of the trouble and quickly correct it. Why cure the liver at the expense of the teeth? Calomel sometimes plays havoc with the gums. So do strong liquids. It is best not to take calomel, but to let Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets take its place.

Most headaches, "dullness" and that lazy feeling come from constipation and a disordered liver. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets when you feel "loggy" and "heavy." Note how they "clear" clouded brain and how they "perk up" the spirits. 10c and 25c a box. All druggists.

Plan to Give Up Fenway and Move Out to Braves Field When Game Resumed

By NICK FLATLEY.

Boston, in the happy days of the future, when baseball is resumed, will most likely be a one big league park town. Which means that all American and National League games will be played at Braves Field.

That, to be brief about it, is the outstanding feature of the financial visit which James E. Gaffney, former owner of the Braves, paid Boston.

James E. contributed some $15,000 to a Boston bank and thereby assured the bondholders of the Commonwealth Realty Company, which is Braves Field, of the coupons due on their bonds.

The stockholders of the club must pay this before the well-known sun sets tomorrow, but that's a day off, and more or less unimportant now, as the readers of yesterday's AMERICAN got the complete inside information on that matter.

The fact remains, however, that President Frazee of the Red Sox, and Manager Barrow went out to Braves Field and looked the property over. They are very seriously considering getting in on it. The real estate value of Fenway Park has increased so wonderfully that as a business proposition a sale is almost a necessity.

GROUND GETTING VALUABLE.

As we understand it, several very flattering offers have been made to the powers that be in the Red Sox corporation. Building out Fenway Park way is going on so rapidly that the playground in the natural course of events is about due to go.

If the Sox should get in on the Braves Field proposition they would thereby split the heavy rental axe which makes the ball yard an impossibility for speculative purposes. Incidentally they wouldn't be paying much more than they do now.

The cut in general expenses which divided ownership would mean would just about make things even. In which case, of course, the Sox would have a park and be in the big bunch of money that the real estate deal would bring.

This little matter, we might mention, will probably be settled when the tangled Braves' affairs are. The mysteries of the two clubs are now merged into one big puzzle, as we look at it.

GAFFNEY LEAVES BOSTON.

The present stockholders of the Braves may produce a buyer before tomorrow night and thereby prevent the suit which Gaffney claims he will bring. Said buyer would merely have to put up the $15,000 that James E. paid out yesterday, and then assume the indebtedness of the club, which isn't much more than the matter of a few hundred thousand, we hear, and the enormous rental and bond payment necessities of the future.

Gaffney and his attorney, James C. Toole, have gone back to New York, where baseball affairs are centralized more or less.

Ned Daley, Ex-Green Hero, Is to Direct Harvard S. A. T. C.

With sturdy Ned Daley, former All-American football star, and 1911 captain at Dartmouth, as leader of the S. A. T. C. team at Harvard, gridiron matters were expected to take a big boom this afternoon in the Stadium.

Daley played left end on the Big Green four years running, and, as a senior, captained the eleven, and also the baseball nine.

The Big Green eleven in 1912 went along swimmingly until Harvard was encountered at the Stadium. With victory apparently in the offing, a blocked kick was recovered by a Harvard man and the Crimson was handed a 5-3 victory.

Better luck next time didn't count with the Granite Staters, for at Princeton the prize scoring play of all gridiron history sent the Green home defeated, 3-0.

That was the year when De Witt, stalwart Eddie Hart, Bluementhal and the ever-ready Sam White were on the job. The Tigers presented the strongest line of the season, but a weakling backfield, save for White, who used to scoop up vagrant pigskins to the everlasting undoing of the opposition.

DeWitt attempted a field goal against Darmouth. His kick was a sad one, the ball tumbling end over end along the ground. As it reached the goal posts of Dartmouth, however, it rose in the air high enough to clear them and gave Princeton the game.

It was a flukey win—most bets were declared off—and the rule in regard to field goal kicks, with reference to their striking the ground before going over the bars, was soon after made more illuminating.

Daley after his graduation spent two Falls as football coach at Colby, and since that time has been in civic employment in his home State, New Hampshire.

Yale's 1902 Grid Pilot Now a Captain in Chemical Division

George Chadwick, who captained Yale's 1902 varsity eleven, and who was one of the most notable figures in Eli's football history, has received a commission as captain in the Chemical Warfare Service, Gas and Flame Division, and will soon go overseas.

Chadwick played halfback on Bulldog teams for four years and in his junior and senior years was chosen by Walter Camp and other critics as an All-American back.

In the Yale-Princeton game of 1902 he twice ran half the length of the field for touchdowns, though as a rule he was not what is termed a "flashy" player.

BOB GUILD IS TO HELP OUT WITH ARMY TEAMS

Bob Guild, always a valuable assistant to Percy Haughton in developing the famous Harvard football system, is to spend one or two days a week hereafter in the Stadium aiding Coach Donovan with the army squads. Westmore Willcox, Jr., one of the most speedy milers Harvard ever developed, and a crack football back as well, is in town for a few days, and may assist in the coaching. Willcox is an ensign in the Naval Aviation Service.

With a Tufts game already booked for November 9, there is prospect of the Crimson scheduling one or two more army games, Boston College, Boston University, Naval Radio School, Camp Devens and Brown S. A. T. C. being mentioned.

NEW JERSEY TARS SHOW FINE FORM ON GRIDIRON

That the U. S. S. New Jersey boys know how to play football was exemplified on Braves Field when they defeated the Little Building team, 6-0. Reckles put up a corking good game at quarterback, while Lieutenant Falling starred the short while he was on duty at left halfback. Hayes, Worsham and Davis also held up their end in tidy style.

Bunk Lally, Mechanic Arts' former quarterback, was the star for Little Building. Jack Fitzgerald, son of the ex-Mayor, also made some good advances, though dropping a forward in the pinch. Hayes scored the lone touchdown of the battle.

LEAGUE ISLAND ELEVEN GIVES PENN BIG SCARE

Philadelphia, Oct. 31.—It was necessary for Penn to rush several of its brightest stars into a scheduled practice game to pull victory away from the League Island Training Camp eleven, 13 to 6.

The tars displayed form in the first three quarters that gave Penn a chill. They scored a touchdown when Haehl got the ball and ran through the whole Red and Blue team to the five-yard line where one plunge carried it over.

In the last four minutes numerous changes were made in Penn's lineup and Braun and Peters scored in rapid succession.

FEW STARS AT FRONT, STATES FULLERTON

Up to Major Leagues to Print Lists of Men at Front—That Will Tell Story

By HUGH S. FULLERTON.

War isn't all bad. This Winter promises to pass without a baseball scandal and without the annual airing of the dirty linen of the club owners.

True, some of them are striving to start something to bring the limelight down on them again, but thus far no one seems to be paying much attention to them.

The American League, through its executives, is striving to show, by printing lists of the players in the service, that the players really are doing a great deal to win the war.

True, the majority of the names are of players who never figured in box scores, and a majority of the names printed are of fellows in non-fighting branches of the service. Still the prepared lists are imposing.

The thing the major leagues should do is to print complete lists of their players, showing who are in service, what branch of the service they are in, and the date of entry. That would be valuable.

The National League owners ought to follow suit and print their lists of service men, and then the two leagues ought to get together and decide that only service men shall be eligible to play on major league teams after the war.

This would be pretty hard on some of the players who are morally and in every other way exempt from duty, but it probably is the only thing that will save baseball from biting criticism when the game is resumed.

It really would be much better for baseball if no effort is made to play a season next year, whether the war ends or not. Even if the war were to end next week, the majority of the troops would be in Europe most of the next Summer, and, without the ball players who are making good over there for Uncle Sam, the game would not prosper here to any extent.

Besides, baseball needs a thorough renovating and airing out before it can be restored to favor of a disgusted public. To resume with makeshift teams would not help the game, and, to attempt to bring back the paint-brush boys and put them on clubs would be suicide.

One Eddie Grant is worth a million of those fellows.

HOPPE SHOWS HE'S SAME OLD CUE WIZARD AT 18-2

Willie Hoppe, billiard king, and George Slosson will renew their Red Cross exhibition at the Engineers' Club tonight. They are to play 400 points at 18-2; starting time 8 o'clock. LEXINGTON HIGH BOYS ARE TOO BUSY TO PLAY

RUTGERS TEAM IN LINE FOR GRID TITLE

Coach Sanford Has Eleven That Seems Sure to Make Trouble

By TOM THORP.

It begins to appear certain that Foster Sanford has developed the championship gridiron eleven of the season at Rutgers.

The manner in which the New Brunswick collegians vanquished Lehigh last Saturday proves beyond all doubt the calibre of the game they are able to come through with.

Any squad that can snow under Tom Keady's pupils by a score of 39 to 0 has every right to lay claim to the premier honors of the football world.

The fact that the South Bethlehem lads arrived at New Brunswick fresh from a well-earned victory over By Dickson's League Island Marines, a combination that defeated Penn, makes the win by Sanford's pupils all the more impressive.

For many seasons Sanford's pupils have been knocking at the door of the championship. Last season a defeat by Bucky O'Neil's Syracuse eleven kept them from being assigned the coveted position on the gridiron throne.

Had they been able to send their Salt City opponents down to defeat they would have had as clear a title to the championship as any combination in the country.

Middies' Game Called Off

Harking Back to the Old Stand-Pat Days

Lieutenant-Governor Coolidge Gives Out What He Understands to Be the Republican State Platform This Year

In response, we assume, to the challenge of Richard H. Long, Democratic candidate for Governor, to his Republican opponent to state to the people of Massachusetts as frankly as Mr. Long himself has done what his policy will be if elected, Lieutenant-Governor Coolidge has told a Salem audience what he understands to be the Republican state platform this year. He said:

> We must keep before the American people the one thought of winning the war. They ought not to think of any other subject. I should not want to present to them any other subject for their consideration. We propose to support the President of the United States, whom the Constitution makes the commander-in-chief of all the forces of the nation, IN THE PROSECUTION OF THE WAR. WE NEED NOT CONSIDER ANY OTHER QUESTION.

What a harking-back to the old stand-pat days before the Progressive revolt, when the Bourbon Republican machine felt so secure in its hereditary hold upon Massachusetts voters that nothing more was necessary than to annually "point with pride" to the achievements of the Grand Old Party! What a contrast to the progressive programs and specific promises of David I. Walsh, Charles Sumner Bird and Samuel W. McCall! How vapid and meaningless is a pledge to support the Commander-in-Chief "in the conduct of the war" at a time when the spirit of patriotic enthusiasm is running so high that it would be impossible to find a citizen in the State who would not sincerely pledge as much, and keep his pledge to the best of his ability!

Mr. Coolidge is utterly and hopelessly wrong. We are doing and will continue to do our best to help the President win the war, but we need also to help him, and to help our own Commonwealth, to prepare for peace. We DO need, as citizens of the nation and more especially as citizens of the State, to consider other subjects, and we shall be forced to consider them whether we would or no, for they will come before the Legislature next Winter with or without the advantage of a recommendation by the Governor, and the action of the Legislature upon them must be subject to the exercise by the Governor of the veto power.

Last year's attempts to cripple the minimum wage law and to pack the Minimum Wage Commission in the interests of unscrupulous employers of labor, as well as to abolish the commission altogether, will certainly be repeated this Winter, along with open and insidious efforts to emasculate the workmen's compensation law and repeal or weaken all the other safeguards that have slowly and laboriously been built up around the wage-earning women and children in Massachusetts industries.

Taxation questions of the utmost importance are also to be forced upon the attention of the Legislature. Shall the proceeds of the State income tax be distributed where they are most needed, and where the industries from which the taxed incomes are drawn are carried on, or shall they go to make tax-dodgers' paradises of a few rich residential towns? The corporation tax law is to be revised—shall the revision be in the interests of Big Business, or shall the tax exemptions, which great corporations now enjoy at the expense of small independent competitors and of the individual taxpayer, be modified or removed?

The street railway systems of the entire State are in a condition of demoralization bordering on collapse, and the Legislature will be asked to find a remedy. Radical measures will be necessary; shall they be planned and carried out in the interests of the public, or shall they give the promoters and stock gamblers, whose extravagant mismanagement has wrecked the lines, a fresh chance to pile up private fortunes at the expense of the traveling public and of the surburban cities and towns?

These are a few only of the vitally important questions that can no more be shoved aside to be settled after the war than provisions for heating our houses and safeguarding the public health. If Governor McCall were a candidate for re-election the omission to restate his views on these matters that cannot be waved aside would be excusable, since his attitude upon them is proved and well known. For Mr. Coolidge to decline to state his attitude is not fair to the voters, and may be unfair to Mr. Coolidge himself, since it compels the voters to infer what his policy will be if elected from his record in the Legislature some years ago, and that record is unfortunately void of any indication that as Governor he would handle these problems in an independent and progressive spirit.

In the contest over the governorship the issues are as sharply and clearly defined as in the senatorial contest between the progressive and independent Democratic candidate, David I. Walsh, and the reactionary Republican candidate, John W. Weeks.

In Calvin Coolidge we have an amiable gentleman of estimable private character, who declines to take the voters into his confidence, but whose record makes it perfectly clear where his sympathies really lie.

In Richard H. Long, on the other hand, the Democratic primaries have offered to the voters a candidate as to whose fitness and progressiveness there can be no shadow of doubt. We know that he is an enemy of monopolies and absolutely independent of corporation control. We know that he is a consistent friend of labor, beloved by his employes because he has always been their friend. We know that he is for the forty-eight-hour law, and for just and liberal provisions in the way of pensions or social insurance for workers prematurely worn out by the high-speeded machinery and nerve tension of modern factory life. We know that he stands for public control of public utilities, and for reducing to impotence the corporation lobby on Beacon Hill. We know that he is for stringent anti-trust legislation to curb the profiteering in food staples at the expense of the wage-earners, a part of which the Legislature has uncovered, but has done nothing to correct. We know that he is for a just and generous treatment of our soldiers while they are fighting for us abroad, that he aims to restore to them the $10 a month extra pay of which they were deprived by a Republican Legislature, and to begin at once to develop the natural resources of the State in order to have employment and self-support ready for the men who will return when the war is over to find their jobs taken and their places filled by others dependent like them on their daily labor for their daily bread.

Richard H. Long ought to receive every vote that was cast for David I. Walsh in 1913 and every vote that was cast for Charles Sumner Bird also, and unless all signs fail he will receive the greater part of them. Machine Republicans alone can have any real interest in the candidacy of Mr. Coolidge, and though the Republican party has unfortunately relapsed under machine control, the machine element is still a voting minority even within the party lines. In the State, as a whole, the independent voters who believe in the principles and policies for which Mr. Long stands are a great majority, and if they or the greater part of them realize the importance of the issue and vote as they believe, Mr. Long's election by a large majority is sure.

Bismarck and the Peace of 1871

By Morton Birge

THIS statement emphasizes Bismarck's insistence on a guarantee of credentials.

Also his declaration carries added interest on account of the famous phrase of former President Roosevelt to the late E. H. Harriman, the railroad master, that: "You and I are practical men." Mr. Roosevelt was only putting on Bismarck's verbal shoes when he applied the adjective to Mr. Harriman.

On October 7, 1870, Bismarck complained to Mayor Rameau of Versailles about the advantage that an armistice and prolonged negotiations gave to France. His view was as follows:

"They (armistice conferences) have never been broken off by me. An armistice of fifteen to twenty days was a material advantage granted to France by Germany. Every day was so much gained by France toward the organization of the general defence, but for Germany it was a loss, since it delayed our advance. We had, therefore, to be compensated.

"If I demanded Toul and Verdun, I only anticipated by five or six days the date on which these two fortresses would fall to us. But it was an enormous advantage to France, and particularly to Paris, to be able to effect wholesale repairs, materially by food supplies, morally by political communication with the remainder of France. We could not concede the point of raising the investment without compensation in the form of military positions which command Paris."

Siege Was On

This conversation with the Mayor of Versailles was three weeks after the Germans began the siege of Paris.

Germany now cries for an armistice when she is on the losing side of the war. Naturally she now seeks the very advantage of armistice and delay to which Bismarck, the greatest Chancellor German statecraft ever produced, objected so flatly when the boot was on the other leg.

Bismarck denounced French propaganda and false press reports, as he viewed them. What he would have said to the unscrupulous, cunning and wholesale German propaganda of today can only be conjectured.

In this connection Bismarck said to Mayor Rameau:

"I have always censured the system of spreading false reports or lies through the press, an abuse which was perpetrated by the empire (French) and is now continued by your republic."

Mayor Rameau was skeptical. Bismarck referred to his own official reports of an engagement near L'Hay, adding:

"We may therefore say 900 French were killed and 85 Germans. Well, then, your papers reported about 450 French hors de combat against more than 500 Germans."

A truly scandalous thing it was to the Iron Chancellor that the French press should (if his official report was correct) lend itself to exaggerating French deeds and minimizing German victories for the consumption of French readers.

Camouflaged News

The attention of the present German censorship might be called to Bismarck's denunciation of camouflaged news.

To Mayor Rameau Bismarck emphasized, as he had to Regnier, the Teuton demand for a competent negotiator, saying:

"UNLESS YOU CREATE AN AUTHORITY, A GOVERNMENT, WHICH SATISFIES US THAT IT IS ABLE TO ENTER INTO OBLIGATIONS IN THE NAME OF FRANCE, YOU PUT IT OUT OF OUR POWER TO DISCUSS THE CONDITIONS OF SUCH A PEACE."

(Attention of the Kaiser, Prince Max et al.)

Germany can hardly complain if the allies prosecute the war inflexibly to the goal of an enduring peace. Bismarck's final words to Mayor Rameau were along the sternest possible line, thus Profiteer Boots and Spurs.

Kaiser no Longer.
Democracy's Other Enemies.
The Profiteer Rides Hard.

By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1918.)

"That's going a long way back for soup," said the Western gentleman, when they offered him oxtail soup.

Congressman Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican National Congressional Committee, goes a long way back for ammunition when he dives into the Civil War in search of reproaches to be hurled at Democrats.

The country just now is not thinking about the Civil War, the War of the Roses, or the war in Lilliput, but of a war that seems to be ending satisfactorily for the United States. In this war all kinds of Americans, Republicans, Democrats and Independents, have done pretty well under the guidance of Woodrow Wilson. He happens to have been elected as a Democrat, but is first of all an American citizen, doing his best most satisfactorily, and worthy of thanks and support. He will have important reconstruction work to do after the war and asks that you vote for democracy to cooperate with him. Don't do it, if you don't want to, but don't get mad about it. These are happy victory days, be cheerful.

An outline of the Allies' peace terms makes it probable that the world will hear soon of the Kaiser's abdication, or of Germany's refusal to accept terms offered.

Imagination could not map out a more complete surrender than is demanded in peace conditions. When it is over, the Hohenzollerns will have less power than Napoleon left them.

Allies to occupy the great German fortresses, including Heligoland, the fortified cities of the Rhine and the Krupp plants, the German army to be demobilized, the Kiel canal made an open waterway, the German air fleet put under Allied supervision—that is a program that the Kaiser could not accept and continue to call himself Kaiser. He will soon know probably how Bismarck felt when he was dropped overboard about thirty years ago.

The whole world, including stock gamblers who are dealing on a cash basis, fearing to buy or sell too much or too little, seems to think that peace is coming, that the terms will be accepted, not because Germany will, but because she must.

Austria, like Bulgaria, is practically out of the game, and if it be true that Turkey has admitted the Allied fleet into the Dardanelles, giving Allied soldiers the right to land and demobilize the Turkish army, that settles the Far Eastern autocrat. The sick man of Europe has gone to bed.

Men and nations are educated by time and force.

Almost two hundred and fifty years ago Richard Rumbold, standing on the scaffold, said: "I never could believe that Providence had sent a few men into the world, ready booted and spurred to ride, and millions ready saddled and bridled to be ridden."

Rumbold couldn't believe it, and for that reason they killed him.

Hundreds of thousands of others have died on the scaffold, and little nations have been wiped out by the power "booted and spurrred."

Boots and spurs worn by autocratic riders, galloping through the world on the backs of millions saddled and bridled, apparently are now to vanish as controlling forces.

That, however, will not mean an end of the world's problems.

Monopolistic combinations, secret deals make life dearer and harder, are not eliminated by any clause in the magnificent peace treaty for democracy that is being arranged at Versailles.

The profiteer wears no boots nor spurs, but he is a hard rider and millions know what it is to feel his weight on their backs.

There will be plenty of work for democracy to do when it finishes with autocracy and removes the imperial boots and spurs to the museums of curiosities.

Fitzgerald-Tague Recount Result

State Ballot Law Commissioners Could Not Have Reached Any Different Decision

The State Ballot Law Commissioners by a unanimous decision have decided that John F. Fitzgerald is the regular Democratic nominee for Congress in the Tenth Congressional District because he has received a majority of the Democratic votes in the Democratic primary recently held in that district.

It is difficult for any one who has followed closely the evidence in the contest before the Ballot Law Commission to understand how the commission could reach any other decision. It is also hard to understand how Mr. Tague could allow himself to raise such a great hue and cry of fraud when there was no fraud, at least no fraud of which Mr. Fitzgerald or his friends were guilty or which in any way affected the vote which Fitzgerald received.

All the objections which were made save that of fraudulent voting were too technical to deserve serious consideration. If Mr. Tague's counsel could have had his way he would have disfranchised hundreds of American citizens merely because the crank of a ballot box was lost for a couple of hours and because a stamp did not print the number of a precinct, although neither of these things affected the vote one way or the other.

The one serious charge made by Mr. Tague's friends was that the names of soldiers and sailors absent on duty had been voted on. This, of course, was a serious charge. But after the din of the cries of fraud had died down and the facts were made to appear it was found that only seventeen names of soldiers and sailors could be presented as having been voted upon improperly. Four of them were from Ward 5 and the rest were from Ward 6. In Ward 5 one sailor came on from Brooklyn, N. Y., to testify that he did vote that day. That leaves only three in Ward 5 whose names were charged to have been improperly voted on. As a matter of fact the commission found that only five of the seventeen names have been illegally voted on.

But if all these votes had been fraudulent and all of them had been cast for Mr. Fitzgerald they would not have changed the result or turned Mr. Fitzgerald's majority into a minority. The vote of the primaries would still have left him the choice of the Democratic party in his Congressional District.

There never was more ado about nothing in a political campaign than this cry of fraud. It is really quite extraordinary that in a hot political contest waged all over a Congressional District, with a hot contest for Governor and hot contests for Senators and Representatives going on in the same districts, there was not a great deal more evidence of fraud to be found than was produced. In Ward 6, where most of the allegations of fraud occurred, there were several very severe local contests. The only man caught attempting to cast an illegal vote in the whole district was caught in that ward, and he said he had been asked to vote illegally for the purpose of helping a local candidate for Representative, and that nothing had been said to him about the Congressional candidates. All this blatter and screaming of fraud without the slightest evidence of it has resulted merely in discrediting the city and the Democrats of Boston on the eve of a great election.

This is not like Mr. Tague. He has been over-influenced by his friends. The AMERICAN took no part in the contest between Mr. Tague and Mr. Fitzgerald, but we cannot help suggesting to Mr. Tague that there must be other and better issues which he might raise than accusing a large part of the democracy of Boston of discreditable conduct.

It is pleasing to observe how well Martin Lomasney's ward showed up in this contest. With more than 2,200 votes cast there are only three questioned ballots. This is more remarkable because there were a great many new precinct officers and mistakes in recording the votes are very natural under such circumstances.

Trust the Conscience of the People

In Critical Times All Americans Can Be Swayed by Appeal to Their Sense of Right

Copyright, 1918, Star Company

The announced purpose of the Food Administration to attempt the extension to homes and private families of the conservation methods which have been successfully applied to hotels and other public eating places is commendable.

But short of a complete system of rationing and food cards, which is at present needless in this country and which would be most offensive to public sentiment here, there is but one way to effect that purpose.

That way we understand the Food Administration purposes to adopt. It is to furnish each household with explicit information as to the extent of saving and avoidance of waste expected from it, and then to trust the outcome to the conscience and the honor of American householders.

We do not believe that an appeal of this sort will fail of its purpose. We do not think that the conscience of the American people was ever stirred without responding loyally to righteous impulses.

The extraordinary unanimity with which the gasless Sundays were accepted was due to the moral influence exerted by the Government's appeal, and the conscientious desire of owners of automobiles to comply with such regulations as the nation declared to be requisite.

We believe that the Food Administration can so handle this matter of eliminating the waste and extravagance in the homes that an extravagant table or a wasteful housekeeper or a gluttonous eater will be looked upon with the scorn and contempt with which the right minded regard the detected slacker.

And the two offenses are essentially of the same sort. Both the slacker and the wastrel refuse to serve their Government at the expense of any personal sacrifice. Both should be regarded with contempt.

Among our people are hundreds of thousands of housewives who look with real envy upon the men who are able to put on the uniform, take up a gun and go in defence of the nation. The appeal of the Food Administration for assistance in conserving our food supplies, that we may suitably care for our soldiers in the field and perform the humane duty of feeding millions of starving people in other lands, gives to these women an opportunity for service no less useful to the nation than that of the soldier in the ranks.

We have no doubt that the militant divisions of thrifty housewives will discharge this service in a way to bring credit to themselves and save food in plenty for the world.
